ARMSTRONG FOUGHT IN MEXICAN WAR

ANDREW J. ARMSTRONG

ONONDAGA VETERAN OF MEXICAN WAR IS TO BE BURIED THIS AFTERNOON

A. J. Armstrong's Death Leaves Only Three Survivors of Conflict in County.

The funeral of Andrew J. Armstrong, who was one of the four Onondaga county survivors of the Mexican War, will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at his home in Mottville, where his death occurred on Friday. Interment will be at Auburn.

The only survivors of the Mexican War now living in this county are Mr. Armstrong's brother, Nicholas L. Armstrong of No. 428 South Clinton street, William H. Horner of Eastwood and Sewell Goodrich Spaulding of Syracuse.

Mr. Armstrong contracted a cold one week ago and complications developed. He was 57 years old on September 12. The two brothers lived at Bulston Spa, where they enlisted for service in the Mexican War at Albany April 1, 1847. They rode side by side in the Third United States Dragoons, under General, then Major E. V. Sumner, father of Mrs. W. W. Deal of this city. Their father and six of his brothers fought in the War of 1812.

The Armstrong brothers fought at Vera Cruz, Pueblo and Molino del Rey, and were present at the fall of the City of Mexico. A greater part of the time their regiment was detailed to guard $10,000,000 in gold, belonging to the army.

Andrew Armstrong re-enlisted at the outbreak of the Civil War. After ending their army service, the brothers located in Onondaga county.

Surviving Mr. Armstrong are his wife; two sons, George N. Armstrong of Bennett and Andrew J. Armstrong, Jr., of Arkansas; three daughters, Mrs. Edward Turcotte and Mrs. J. Burgess of Mottville and Mrs. E. Bonney of North Carolina, and the brother in this city.

Patrick L. Timmons of Liverpool, another veteran of the Mexican War, died at the Hospital of the Good Shepherd on February 5.

WANT CORNELL TO RENEW RELATIONS WITH SYRACUSE

Sentiment for the renewal of stilted relations between Cornell and Syracuse universities was expressed at the annual dinner of the Cornell Club of Syracuse held Saturday evening at the Onondaga. Former Governor Horace White, Judge Frank H. Hiscock and others favored making an effort to restore friendly relations between the two institutions.

Action was taken authorizing the appointment of a committee to take up the question. It is hoped to secure a Cornell-Syracuse baseball game a year from the coming spring.

Prof. John H. Barr declined to serve longer as president of the club and Forbes Heermans was elected in his place. George L. Baldwin was made vice-president and Arthur A. Costello secretary-treasurer.

Besides former Governor White and Judge Hiscock the speakers included Irving Hobbs of Pulaski, Justice F. C. J. DeAngelis of Utica, E. L. Robertson of Syracuse and Prof. Karapetoff of Cornell. Prof. Barr was toastmaster.

Free Dispensary Redecorated.

The interior of the Syracuse Free Dispensary is being redecorated at a cost of $200. The enlarging of the scope of the dental clinic to provide for school children under the age of 16 years is being deferred pending the completion of the work which will require another two weeks.

Annual Ball of Socialists.

The socialist party will hold its annual concert and ball this evening in Gilchert Hall. The committee in charge of the arrangements has completed its work and expects the hall will be crowded. Special music will be rendered by the Arion and Concordia singing societies.

SHORTENING OF DECALOGUE NOT A CRITICISM OF MOSES

Rev. James Empringham Explains Why Church Desires Change—Commands in Short Form Do Not Lose, but Gain in Strength, He Declares.

Rev. James Empringham, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, discussed from the pulpit yesterday morning the issue which has concerned the Episcopal church of late relative to a modification of the Ten Commandments.

Having attended the last Pan-Anglican conference, which discussed the subject at length, Mr. Empringham is familiar with the plan in all its details.

In part he said yesterday: "The Convocation of Canterbury which annually convenes in London is the supreme representative body in the Church of England. The present convention which assembled on St. Valentine's day in Westminster was expected to be of unusual interest because the preliminary reports of the Prayer Book Revision Committee were to be presented at that time.

A proposition to abridge the Decalogue which has been cabled from the convocation to this country has caused a sensation. Many have branded it as a wicked attempt to improve upon Moses. Nothing of the kind is proposed.

In the Bible there are two versions of the Ten Commandments—Ex. 20 and Deut. 5. The heads or essential portions of the commandments in these two accounts are the same, but the tails or amplifications are different.

The ancient Jewish rabbis taught that God had only inscribed ten words upon the tables and that the amplifications were explanations added later. Josephus records the commands without the amplifications. In the illustrations of ancient manuscripts only ten Hebrew words are on the heads and the tails ancient scholars supposed each command composite. The Pentateuch does not claim to have been all written by Moses and no one but an idiot ever supposed it was. For Moses would hardly have recorded his own death and funeral.

All scholars to-day believe the commands and their explanations were by different hands. It makes no difference who penned them. The most ardent advocates for an abridgement of the commandments are conservative churchmen.

In the American Episcopal service the clergyman may omit the decalogue from his communion provided he reads it once a week. The English, if they can get the sanction of Parliament, are anxious to follow our noble revised American liturgy in every respect except this.

Instead of omitting the commandments the conservatives favor inserting an optional and shortened decalogue into the communion service which the minister may read when pressed for time.

The commands in this short form do not lose, but gain in strength. Thus the ninth command, as Christ repeated it, forbids not only slanders, but all forms of lying.

It is further urged that the commandments are now taught in the shortened form in the English national schools, and the catechism should conform to the custom.

Any revision of the English liturgy is extremely slow because of the unfortunate union between church and state. The proposed changes must receive the sanction not only of the church in convocation, but also of the King and Parliament, which means a referendum vote of people of all creeds and none.

AGED WOMAN FOUND DEAD BY SON; HAD LIVED ALONE

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bingham, 90 years old, was found dead in her room at her home in the town of Van Buren Saturday morning. She was the widow of Henry Bingham and had lived alone in the house, which had been her home for seventy years, since her husband's death. Her son, Jay Bingham, had visited her on Thursday and called again Saturday. He had to force his way into the house and then found his mother dead. It was apparent the fatal attack came while she was preparing to retire Friday night.

Spark Sets Fire to Roof.

A spark from a passing engine set fire to the tar roof of the plant of the Syracuse Wall Plaster Company, No. 250 Lord street, at 7 o'clock last night, causing about $10 damage.

Refrigerator Balded by Thief.

The family of Harry Chamberlin of No. 344 Garfield avenue went without steak or butter at their meals yesterday as the result of a raid made on their refrigerator some time Saturday night. When the box was opened before breakfast yesterday a package of steak and a jar containing ten pounds of butter were missing.

COURSES IN BEE CULTURE WANTED IN UNIVERSITIES

The Onondaga Bee Keepers Association has decided to ask the various universities of the state to establish courses in bee culture.

At the annual meeting of the association at the Court House Saturday the following officers were elected:

President, Oscar Dines, Syracuse; first vice-president, Irving Kenyon, Camillus; second vice-president, E. Charles G. Schamu, Liverpool; third vice-president, B. J. Rout, Syracuse; secretary-treasurer, John H. Cunningham of Syracuse University.

Brownson Club Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the Brownson Club, an organization of Catholic students of the University, this evening in the K. of C. rooms in the Larned Block. Principal James A. Shea of Lincoln School will speak on "An Evening in Boyville." The annual meeting of the club will be held on March 13.

Fails to Get $2,000 Damages.

A jury in County Court Saturday found "satisfied" for the defendant in the action brought by Liborio Marano against Rosa Francouso. The plaintiff charged that he was accused by the defendant of being a chicken thief. Two thousand dollars damages were asked.

YES, DUNN, THE QUAKER HEALTH TEACHER IS STILL HERE

Sensational Cures of Syracuse People Are Still Being Reported Every Day

Read What Henry Koof of East Fayette Street and John Barth of East-Syracuse Said Saturday

Extraordinary results from the use of the wonderful Quaker Health Teacher, which Dunn, the Quaker Health Teacher, is now introducing in this city, are still coming to light. Wald-Dalton's drug store, corner Salina and Fayette streets, was crowded all day Saturday with people awaiting their turn to speak to Dunn. One enthusiastic person is telling another about this great remedy, hence the enormous demand. The many cures already reported have convinced the people that Quaker Extract is a wonderful medicine indeed for sufferers from rheumatism, catarrh, kidney, liver, stomach and blood troubles.

Henry Koof, aged 26, said: "For the past two years I have suffered from rheumatism in my back, knees and ankles, and often it also affected my arms and hands. I am a bill clerk and last December, during the holiday rush, I could not work for ten days, because I could not hold a pen in my hands. I took electric treatment, massage and vapor-baths together with much internal medicine, but it seemed nothing would help me. On February 24 I called on Dunn at Wald-Dalton's drug store and bought a treatment of Quaker remedies. The results surprised me. I improved quickly and continuously in spite of the bad weather we have been having and now I have no ache, pain or stiff joints."

John Barth, laborer, of East-Syracuse, aged 41, said: "I suffered from gas on my stomach, bloating, belching, dizziness and palpitation of the heart and also at times would have severe stomach cramps. My case was pronounced intestinal indigestion. I was put on a severe diet and had to be extremely careful of what I ate and drank, still my complaints continued. Last December while Dunn was at Sullivan & Slauson's drug store at Utica I sent for a treatment of Quaker Extract. This medicine cured me and I now cheerfully allow Dunn to publish my testimonial. If people doubt my cure I will come to the drug store and convince them any evening when Dunn may send for me."

Dunn will not locate here permanently, so if you wish to meet him call at Wald-Dalton's drug store at once. If you cannot call, order by mail and the remedies will be sent to you promptly. Quaker Herb Extract, 1 for $2.50; 6 for $15.00.

You can still obtain the wonderful Quaker Cough Syrup for 25c a bottle. This Cough Syrup contains no poisons and can be safely given to babies. Call on Dunn, at Wald-Dalton's drug store, daily from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Call in the morning if you possibly can.
