THE SEVENTY-FIFTH.

The Survivors of the Gallant Regiment in Annual Re-union.

The eighteenth annual re-union of the Seventy-fifth Regiment New York Veteran Volunteers, was held in Crocker post rooms to-day and was well attended. The session was opened this morning and at noon the following had registered:

Edwin J. Hill, David Wilcox, William Anderson, Sylvanus Finch, W. B. Sabin, B. T. Cain, Jared Gray, J. Coughlin, John Vosburg, David B. Palmer, Erwin L. Bradley, A. H. Marbach, Samuel Wright, John T. Chaffe, Edward Earll, F. M. Hunting, M. Thomson, E. Walker, Charles Stevens, J. J. Campbell, W. H. Root, Jacob Craw, T. S. Barker, Daniel Fenner, Coy Clark, H. E. Jones, William Marriott, Miles Groom, Henry Porselle, Fred Cossum, Daniel Somers, Adam Jaeckel, O. S. Canfield, Warren B. Tompkins, Frederick Hart, Charles V. Wormwood, H. G. Post, James Stevens, W. G. Sturges, Jefferson Tucker, A. G. Worden, H. S. McCarthy, J. W. Hapeman, R. D. Blodgett, W. E. Case, R. Parish, George O. Taylor, Ananias Knight, George Aldrich, James Huntington, Albert Hatch, Sidney Curtis, Isaac Dolph, T. T. Smith, J. R. Hulbert, John K. Gray, B. G. Lewis, Calvin Jayne, A. Hallett, C. H. Lakey, Frank Merrill, D. E. Taylor, William Ramsey, Willard Joslin.

The morning meeting was a social gathering with little business beyond reports from the secretary, treasurer and committees. Frederic Cossum then told in an interesting way of his trip to the National encampment at Cincinnati and a visit to Chickamauga. He spoke of the sickness there and attributed it to young officers, who were inexperienced and consequently incompetent to be in command.

Comrade John E. Savery spoke after Mr. Cossum touching on the hardships of the boys of Company M, and criticising their personal appearance as they returned yesterday saying that "the officers in command ought to be execrated and thrown out of the community" for bringing the men home as they came. He agreed with Mr. Cossum in attributing the sickness and death to incompetency and also laid much blame to the regiment itself in not taking care of itself as it should.

Comrade William Anderson read a poem composed by himself, entitled "Brown Bread." Short talks were given by other members and at 1 o'clock an adjournment was taken for dinner.

WHEELER—WATKINS.

The Howland Homestead the Scene of a Pretty Wedding This Afternoon.

The residence of Mrs. H. V. Howland, No. 60 East Genesee street was the scene of a quiet afternoon wedding to-day when Miss Corinne Louise Wheeler, a niece, of this city, daughter of Mrs. Eben Osborne Wheeler, and Thomas David Watkins, of Utica, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock, Rev. Frederick W. Palmer, of the Central Presbyterian church, reading the solemn service which made them man and wife. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and family friends were present. Florist Patrick had converted the interior of the house into a bower of dark green foliage and beautiful bright flowers, ferns, smilax, asparagus vines, palms, cut flowers and golden rod were liberally used in the decorations. Stevaps' orchestra, stationed under the stairs in the roomy hall, played throughout the afternoon. It was a few minutes after 3 when the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin announced the approach of the bridal party. It came down the stairs from the floor above. Bridesmaids and maid of honor were dispensed with. The two ushers, Harte Cooke, of this city, and Morris J. Davids, of Utica, preceded the clergyman and the bride and groom with ropes of smilax making a path through the guests to a bank of palms and ferns in the corner of the West parlor before which the little party grouped itself while the short, plain service of the church was read which united the two young folks forever, man and wife. The bride was attired in a gray traveling suit trimmed with embroidered mousseline de soie. There was a short reception after the ceremony, following which the bridal party and the guests all sat down to a dainty supper served by Caterer Sherlock and a corps of capable assistants. The bride's table in pink and green was spread in the center of the dining room with smaller tables 'round about, in the hall and in the library opposite. It was a merry gathering that sat down together.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins left on the 5:25 train East for their future residence in Utica where they will at once begin housekeeping in the home prepared by Mr. Watkins for his bride. To begin their new life the young couple were the recipients of a beautiful array of presents of silver, cut glass, bric a brac and pictures. The groom's gift to his bride was a sunrise pin set with pearls and diamonds and each of his ushers received a scarf pin set with pearls.

The bride is an estimable young woman of this city who has just completed a course in the training school of the Faxton Hall hospital, Utica. The groom is a rising young lawyer of Utica and the junior member of the firm of Lewis & Watkins. He was formerly corporation counsel and just at present is energetically pushing the Democratic ticket in Oneida county which he heads as a popular candidate for State senator. Mr. Watkins is a graduate of Cornell, president of the Democratic association of Oneida county and a director of the Young Men's Christian association.

The guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Elliott, Frederick H. Elliott, Syracuse; Miss Eva Osborne, Port Byron; Mrs. W. H. Parkhurst, West Winfield, Mrs. T. G. Prytherch and Miss Dorothy Prytherch, Mrs. A. M. Nye, Brooklyn; Mrs. Adelbert R. Tucker, Conneaut, Ohio; Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Small, Messrs. W. E. Lewis, Thomas Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. John Watkins, John H. Watkins, Mrs. Delos W. Morris, of West Exeter, N. Y.

DR. EUGENE S. FORMAN.

Sudden Death of the Popular Health Officer at His Home Last Evening.

Dr. Eugene S. Forman, an honored member of the medical profession in this city, died at his home in East Genesee street last evening at 9 o'clock.

Dr. Forman had just returned from the residence of Mrs. Maria Smith, a neighbor, who had suffered a fractured wrist. As he neared the barn in the rear of his residence Dr. Forman called to the driver to bring out the horse as he had his regular evening calls to make. The driver had started toward the stall in which the horse was standing when he suddenly heard the doctor cough as if choking. He glanced out of the door and saw Dr. Forman prostrate on the ground, clutching at his breast with his hands.

The family were immediately summoned, but upon their arrival there was no evidence of life in the body. A messenger was dispatched for Dr. S. E. Austin and upon his arrival he pronounced Dr. Forman dead. Coroner Laird was notified but decided an inquest unnecessary. The cause of death was apoplexy.

Eugene S. Forman was born in Cato, this county, October 22, 1846. He received his early education at Red Creek academy and Fulley seminary. He served two years in the Civil war and after his return he began the study of medicine at Ann Arbor, finishing his medical training at Buffalo university in 1870. He at once began to practice at Meridian where he remained until 15 years ago when he moved to this city.

Dr. Forman was a member of the State and County Medical societies and as a member of the latter he attended the National Medical association at Denver. Dr. Forman had been health officer of Auburn for the past 12 years and as such he has done efficient service. He was also a member of the Board of Pension Examiners; was on the staff at the City hospital, and was also connected with the G. A. R., St. Paul's Chapter, R. A. M. and the City club. Both professionally and socially Dr. Forman was a favorite. He was always the same, alike to old and young, rich and poor. His proseads and influence in the local medical society will be greatly missed as he was a prime factor in all movements for its interest. He is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. William C. Hamilton, of Pittsburg, who was here at the time of his death, and Dr. Andrew J. Forman, of Paterson, N. J.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

A special meeting of the Board of Health will be held to-night at 8 o'clock to take action on the death of Dr. E. S. Forman, who was health officer of the board, having held that position for many years.

Lewis H. Bradley.

Lewis H. Bradley, of Moravia, died at the home of his son A. H. Bradley, No. 60 Bradford street, on Monday evening as a result of a stroke of apoplexy.

Mr. Bradley came here to visit his son about three weeks ago and was preparing to depart for home when stricken.

The greater portion of Mr. Bradley's life was spent in this county, he having for many years conducted a general store at the Five Corners. About 12 years ago Mr. Bradley suffered a slight stroke of paralysis thus incapacitating him for active work. After partially recovering from this attack Mr. Bradley removed to Moravia.

The funeral services will be held on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Bates, of Moravia, officiating. Burial at Fort Hill.

Death of William H. Zepp.

William H. Zepp, the well known news dealer, died at his home in Court street shortly before midnight last night of Bright's disease. Mr. Zepp has been in ill health for the past two years and, although his death was not unexpected it will be a shock to his many friends.

William H. Zepp was born in Philadelphia 63 years ago. He came to this city about 35 years ago and immediately embarked in the business which he has so long conducted. Shortly after his arrival here Mr. Zepp married Miss Mary C. White and she, together with five children, one son, Howard A., and four daughters, Mrs. J. C. Cooper, Misses Catherine, Emma and Florine Zepp, survive him.

Mr. Zepp was a thorough business man, reserved in his habits, seldom, if ever, leaving his home and business. He was a member of the Knights Templar and a thirty-second degree mason. His funeral services will be conducted according to the Masonic rite, Revs. J. B. Murray, of Moravia, and Frederick W. Palmer, of this city, officiating. The services will be held at the late residence of the deceased in Court street on Friday afternoon.

Burial will be at Fort Hill.

Klondike's Output.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 14.—F. C. Wade, crown attorney of the Klondike, has arrived here from Dawson City. Mr. Wade estimates the gold output this season at $64,000,000.

Amazing Cleverness of Birds.

There is something very remarkable in the almost reasoning powers manifested occasionally by birds in eluding pursuit or in turning attention from their nests and young, but in few is this more noticeable than in the duck tribes. In Captain Hinck's narrative of his arctic land expedition the following instance of this is given:

One of his companions, Mr. King, having shot a female duck, fired again and, as he thought, disabled its male companion. Accordingly, leaving the dead bird, which he had the mortification of seeing shortly afterward carried off by one of the white headed eagles, he waded into the water after the drake, which, far from being fluttered or alarmed, remained motionless, as if waiting to be taken up. Still, as he neared it, it glided easily away through innumerable little nooks and windings. Several times he reached out his hand to seize it, and, having at last with great patience managed to coop it up in a corner, from which there appeared to be no escape, he was triumphantly bending down to take it when, to his utter astonishment, it looked around at him, cried "Quack!" and then flew away so strongly that he was convinced he had never hit it at all. The bird's object clearly was to draw the gunner away from its companion.

Pagodas as Sin Offerings.

Just as brewers and other evil men in England conciliate heaven by erecting churches so the bold, bad, bloody handed Burman makes it all right for the next existence by erecting pagodas. In proportion to the height of the pagoda his heap of sin disappears. And as the Burman, like the rest of us, looks after his own wants rather than those of his ancestors, he builds a pagoda all to himself, and allows his grandfather's to topple over. An uncle of the deposed king must have been round shouldered with the weight of his wrongdoings.

Anyway, at the foot of Mandalay hill—a nice, breezy eminence, admirable to give you an appetite and a pain in the back—he built 729 pagodas, though the guides count wrong and say there are only 450. But perhaps they mention the smaller number out of regard for their monarch's uncle, not wishing to expose the real magnitude of his sinfulness. The pagodas are all white and set out in rows, and under each were what we pronounced to be tombstones. We were wrong, for the inscriptions were not to the dear departed, but constituted a complete copy of the law in the Pali tongue.—Travel.

When Wellington Was Mad.

The Czar Nicholas' visit to Windsor in 1844 afforded Murray an opportunity to be present at one of the few occasions when the Duke of Wellington lost control of himself. He did it at a review before the queen, her imperial guest, and the royal family, when, contrary to his orders, issued for the queen's convenience, the guns were fired. The hero of a hundred fights stormed in "a most violent manner."

When the prince tried to pacify him by saying it was doubtless a mistake, he replied: "It is very good of your royal highness to excuse it, but there should be no mistakes. Military orders should be punctually obeyed, and so long as I command the army they shall be obeyed!" The emperor was astonished, and the suite looked at each other with blank faces, while the artillery was ordered off the maneuvering ground.

Cardinal Manning's Humor.

Dr. Manning had a strong sense of humor and delighted in telling Irish stories. One related to an Irish laborer, who was thus addressed by a passing Englishman:

"What's that you're building, Paddy?" "Shure an it's a churrch, yer honner." "Is it a Protestant church?" "No, yer honner." "A Catholic church, then?" "Indade an it is that same, yer honner." "I'm very sorry to hear it, Pat." "So's the devil, yer honner."

The cardinal on one occasion arrived in full merriment, though informing his friends that he had been all but run over, and he added: "If the accident had been more effectual, my epitaph must have been:

"Sad was his fate, it happened thus,
He was run over by a bus."
—Westminster Gazette.

Many Ways of the Japs.

The first ten days that one spends in Japan impress him with the idea that the people there are the best to be found anywhere. But little by little the conviction dawns that the bowing and scraping is all shammed and that the Japanese are as unscrupulous as any one. They cannot be trusted to keep a contract that is not favorable to them. In all the large establishments, especially in the hotels, one always finds a Chinese as cashier. Seemingly the Japanese are afraid to trust one another. The women are quite different. They are faithful and honest and have a lovable nature. I have met a large number of foreigners who have married Japanese women and they are all enthusiastic in their praise.—Tacoma Ledger.

Covered the Case.

Not long ago the Dublin Independent published the following obituary notice: "Smith—On the 28th inst., Amy Jane Mary Smith, eldest daughter of John and Wilhelmina Smith, aged 1 day and 2½ hours. The bereaved and heartbroken parents beg to tender their hearty thanks to Dr. Jones for his unremitting attention during the illness of the deceased and for the moderate brevity of his bill; also to Mr. Wilson for running for the doctor and to Mr. Robinson for recommending mustard plaster."

Photographers, in their constant study of the face, find that the left side makes the more pleasant picture and that the profile as seen from the left gives a more correct likeness than when viewed from the right.

DESTITUTE PROSPECTORS.

Distressing Scenes Along the Ashcroft Route Leading to Klondike.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 14.—A party of miners, who have arrived here from Fort Wrangel, Alaska, relate a story confirmatory of previous reports of suffering of prospectors who tried to get into the Klondike by the Ashcroft route. The party is composed of James and Frank Hazera, Wrough and William Mullin. Their home is at Dolphin Lake, Manitoba.

In an interview Mullin says: "The scenes of distress along the trail are vividly impressed on our minds. We passed fully 100 outfits, representing perhaps 00 men, and many of them were actually starving. The poor fellows had in many cases lost everything—clothing, horses and provisions—and were struggling along in a half dazed condition, eating gophers, groundhogs, squirrels, in fact anything they could get. They are a ragged, hungry and desperate crowd of men, with small hopes of reaching their destination. Occasionally a fortunate party on the trail gives them provisions but none of us had much to spare. All along the trail you can see them linger under trees and under improvised shelters, trudging helplessly along in the day time and often lying down at night without a bite to eat. It is simply terrible."

An Alpine life-saving society has been formed in the Tyrol at Innsbruck. Its object is to have stations at various resorts for rendering prompt assistance, with competent guides in case of accidents.

TURKEY WON'T WITHDRAW.

British Alleged to Have Provoked the Disorders in Candia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 14.—The Turkish government has sent a circular to the powers, alleging that the British provoked the disorders at Candia, claiming that the present situation is due to the measures adopted by the powers in Crete and protesting against the bombardment of Candia. Finally, the Porte announces its refusal to withdraw the Turkish troops from Crete, in spite of the decision of the admirals that such a step is absolutely necessary.

The circular has made a bad impression in diplomatic circles.

Will Disarm Conditionally.

CANDIA, Island of Crete, Sept. 14.—The Bashi-Bazouks have consented to disarm, providing their arms are delivered to the Turkish authorities.

DIZZY SPELLS AND PALPITATION

Cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"For several years I have been subject to dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart and irregular beating. Often I have been greatly afraid that I might drop dead of heart disease. Though troubled at the same time with indigestion and dyspepsia, it is only a short time ago that I found out that the gas from the improperly digested food compressed the heart so as to give a fluttering sensation and cause a dull pain. Dr. A. W. Chase's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured me almost entirely of what I supposed was heart disease. They have cured me of indigestion and made my stomach so strong and healthy that I can now eat what I like without suffering any ill effects. They seem to digest the food themselves and keep the bowels regular."

SCHOOL COMMENCES
Soon. That means constant application for some time. Have any of your children complained about their eyes? If so bring them to us and find why they complain.
A little care may prevent them from wearing glasses all their lives—may prevent a serious breakdown. It costs nothing to have your children's eyes examined. It may cost a great deal if they are not examined.

WANTED.
The whole female population of Auburn to turn out in full force to-morrow and buy our new fall suits, jackets, capes, separate skirts, waists, wrappers, &c. Having won the confidence and trust of the ladies of Auburn we strive to deserve it by selling only first class reliable goods, by strictly maintaining the one price cash system, by exercising economy in the conduct of our business, in rent, expenses of all kinds and by giving the ladies the fruits of all these great advantages by selling at a modest profit. No wonder trade is coming our way. Our prices and values are drawing cards. See window display. Our windows are regular table talks. They tell you the price.
