SPECIAL SALE

—OF—

Wakefield Baby Carriages

AT CUT PRICES.

A Grand Benefit to the Mothers of Rochester. A Full Line of the Beautiful Carriages Made by the Wakefield Rattan Company to be Sold at Out-of-Season Prices. Don't Impose upon Your Baby with a Cheap Carriage while You Can Afford to Give Him the Best in the Land.

Instead of following the usual custom of marking down Baby Carriages late in the fall, we have decided to anticipate the event and make a Special Sale that will be of Immediate Advantage to the little ones as well as to their parents. We have therefore made a DEEP CUT in the prices of all carriages in stock and offer them without reserve at the reduced figures. Samples of these elegant vehicles may be seen in the show window, but a close inspection is solicited. The ticket on each carriage is marked with the reduced price. The Wakefield Carriages enjoy a wide reputation for beauty, durability and easy-riding qualities, and every mother who has the comfort of her baby at heart should take advantage of this special sale.

JUNE IS IN SIGHT.

Some say June is out-of-sight, and the poet asks, "What is so rare as a day in June?" A June day in June is getting to be rare in this latitude, but rarer than all is a Boy's Two-Piece New York made Suit, worth $6 to $8, for $3.95. That is McFarlins' figure, however, and parents are coming from far and near to buy.

Long pants suits, worth $10 to $16, for $7 and $12.

Men's Summer Suits, full of New York style, for the price of others that have no style at all.

ROCHESTER'S WATER SUPPLY.

Is It Polluted by River Sewage as Dr. Mulligan Claims?

The statements made by Dr. Edward W. Mulligan regarding alleged impurities in the city's potable water supply, which he believes has been ascertained by a chemical analysis of some of the water, is creating some comment, but there are very few citizens prepared to believe that the Hemlock water is contaminated. Chief Engineer Kuichling returned late Wednesday night from a tour over the new conduit line, work on which, he said, when a reporter of the Democrat and Chronicle called to see him, was progressing very well. Mr. Kuichling stated that as soon as he had finished reading Dr. Mulligan's statements he started an inquiry into the subject, first of all sending a man to see Dr. Mulligan to ascertain where the water which had been analyzed had been obtained. Concerning the doctor's remarks as to the danger of contamination to the waters of the Brighton artesian wells by reason of the drainage from Mt. Hope reservoir, Chief Kuichling stated that in his opinion none of the said drainage enters the wells. The analysis of the water indicates that it is of excellent quality. Mr. Kuichling said in an interview: "The questions of Holley water finding an entrance through automatic fire sprinkling apparatus into Hemlock mains is not entirely new. Ex-Chief Engineer Tubbs, while in office, commenced to object to the connections made between the two systems by these sprinklers and at his suggestion several were removed."

When Mr. Kuichling became chief he caused a thorough examination of all the connections, about fifteen in number, to be made. The connections have stop gates for controlling and shutting off the water supply by hand under the direction of the executive board and also the check valves so that if one system has not sufficient pressure the check valve on the other system will work automically provided that both of the controlling gates are open. It was found that sometimes the check valves were liable to "catch" allowing some of the Holly water into the Hemlock mains, perhaps, the water from the system having the higher pressure passing into the pipes of the other system having the lower pressure. Mr. Kuichling advised that the gates of one system be shut in every case and the use of one or the other system allowed at the option of the factory owners, but not both systems in any case.

"The fire underwriters and some of the manufacturers," said Mr. Kuichling, "objected." Nevertheless, the gates were closed one after the other until a year ago only a few of the gates were open, one of which was kept open in order that a new contrivance under the department's constant surveillance might be given a long and careful trial. The old connecting pipes remain in all the factories where they were first introduced, and it would be little work to open the gates." Mr. Kuichling stated that his men would ascertain if this work had been done surreptitiously in any case.

Mr. Kuichling was asked by the reporter if he had yet heard from what source the water which had been analyzed and was said to contain impurities had been taken. He replied that he had not. He added: "If the water was taken from a 'dead' end coal tar in solution may have caused the water to become impure. You see we cannot flush very much at the dead end, because of lack of water, and it is possible that free ammonia caused by the coal tar, may have been discovered."

A FRIEND O' THE BARNACLE.

A Very Bad Man Who Was Benefited by Judge Ernst's Peculiar Ways.

Herman Bridgeman, who, while with a companion, attempted to steal a gold ring from White's jewelry store on East Main street Wednesday evening, was discharged in the police court yesterday morning on the ground that he was arrested without a warrant, although he had been caught in the act of going off with the ring.

It has been learned that the young man, with his companion, played his trick of substituting a brass ring for a gold one in more than one store in the city. They went into Van Bergh Bros., on State street, and went off with a ring valued at $5, leaving a 15 cent brass ring in the case.

They also went to Judson's store, No. 256 East Main street, and to a store on Central avenue, near the depot, stealing a ring in each place.

Brooklyn made a desperate try for first place yesterday, but the Pittsburgs had received a tip from Buckeuberger to the effect that the way to get on in this world is to keep all you get, and the desirous bridegrooms couldn't reach. At the end of the ninth the score was a tie and the Brooklyn rooters were rosy with hope, but the Italians sailed in and accumulated four runs in their half of the ninth, and Brooklyn was beaten. New York found John Clarkson an easy mark and had no trouble defeating the Clevelands, and Boston had an easy thing again with the Colonels. The Phillies turned the tables on the Colts, giving them a bad drubbing. St. Louis was "thrun down" again by the Orioles and Washington put Cincinnati to sleep with ease. Stories and scores follow:

Philadelphia, June 1.—Chicago did not figure in to-day's game, and Philadelphia won in the first inning. Anson's colts were kept busy chasing the ball. Attendance, 2,142. Score:

Chicago ..... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—1
Philadelphia ..... 4 0 0 2 6 0 0 0 4—16

Hits—Chicago, 8; Philadelphia, 21. Errors—Chicago, 7; Philadelphia, 3. Batteries—Chicago, Hutchinson and Kittridge; Philadelphia, Keefe and Cross.

* * *

Baltimore, June 1.—The Baltimore club won to-day's game by Gleason's wildness in the first inning and three hits. Attendance, 2,443. Score:

St. Louis..... 1 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—3
Baltimore ..... 4 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—5

Hits—St. Louis, 7; Baltimore, 6. Errors—St. Louis, 1; Baltimore, 1. Batteries—St. Louis, Gleason and Gunson; Baltimore, McMahon and Robinson.

* * *

Washington, June 1.—Meekin was almost invincible when hits were needed to-day and as a result the Cincinnatis were easily defeated by Washington. Attendance, 2,000. Score:

Cincinnati ..... 2 0 1 2 0 0 0 1 0—6
Washington ..... 3 0 0 4 0 1 2 0 2—12

Hits—Cincinnati, 9; Washington, 15. Errors—Cincinnati, 4; Washington, 1. Batteries—Cincinnati, Denzer and Murphy; Washington, Meekin and McGuire.

* * *

New York, June 1.—The New Yorks made eighteen base hits off John Clarkson to-day and defeated the Clevelands with ease. Attendance, 3,000. Score:

Cleveland ..... 1 1 0 0 1 1 0 3 1—8
New York..... 3 0 3 0 1 1 0 5 *—13

Hits—Cleveland, 9; New York, 17. Errors—Cleveland, 6; New York, 7. Batteries—Cleveland, Clarkson and Zimmer; New York, Rusie and Doyle.

* * *

Boston, June 1.—The lower end of the Boston's list pummeled Rhines all over the field to-day, and, with Long's aid, beat the Colonels in a canter. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

Louisville ..... 0 1 0 3 0 0 0 0 0—4
Boston ..... 0 4 3 0 2 0 2 3 *—15

Hits—Louisville, 5; Boston, 14. Errors—Louisville, 3; Boston, 4. Batteries—Louisville, Rhines and Grim; Boston, Staley and Merritt.

* * *

Brooklyn, June 1.—The Brooklyns received a decided set back at Eastern Park this afternoon. They tried in the presence of 3,500 spectators to take first place from the Pittsburgs, but their aspirations were defeated and their hopes crushed. Score:

Pittsburg ..... 0 1 3 0 0 0 0 0 4—8
Brooklyn ..... 0 3 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—4

Hits—Pittsburg, 8; Brooklyn, 6. Errors—Pittsburg, 1; Brooklyn, 4. Batteries—Brooklyn, Haddock, Terry and Kinslow; Pittsburg, Gastright and Mack.

Eastern League.

Binghamton, June 1.—It was an exciting game that Springfield lost to Binghamton to-day by a score of 6 to 5. Coughlin and Barnett officiated in the pitching line for their respective clubs. Barnett at times was very wild, sending ten men to first on called balls, but at critical times when a safe hit would mean defeat for his club, he was equal to the emergency and pitched good ball. Score:

Binghamton ..... 0 0 0 2 3 1 0 0 0—6
Springfield ..... 3 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—5

Hits—Binghamton, 9; Springfield, 6. Errors—Binghamton, 0; Springfield, 2. Batteries—Binghamton, Barnett and Briggs; Springfield, Coughlin and Ryan.

* * *

Wilkesbarre, June 1.—Wilkesbarre defeated Providence to-day in the fifth inning by heavy hitting, coupled with a disastrous error by Bassett, netting five runs. Bob Pettit went into the box in the middle of the inning and put out two men, and for four innings was only hit safely five times. The features of the game were Bassett's fielding at third base, and Lachance's four hits, two being home runs, and Bonner's four hits, including a double and triple. Score:

Wilkesbarre ..... 1 2 2 0 5 0 1 0 0—12
Providence ..... 4 1 0 3 0 0 0 0 0—8

Hits—Wilkesbarre, 16; Providence, 13. Errors—Wilkesbarre, 5; Providence, 3. Batteries—Wilkesbarre, McLaughlin and Lake; Providence, Madden, Pettit and McKeough.

* * *

Buffalo, June 1.—In to-day's game the Bisons found Payne in several innings and soon ran their total up to 8. Schellerman kept the hits well scattered and his support was gilt edged. Rowe's work at second and at the bat was brilliant. Hanrahan's absence weakened the Senators. Score:

Albany ..... 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1
Buffalo ..... 1 0 2 2 0 4 0 0 *—9

Hits—Albany, 8; Buffalo, 16. Errors—Albany, 3; Buffalo, 0. Batteries—Albany, Payne and Hess; Buffalo, Schefferman and Urquhart.

Talk About Low Prices

In connection with furniture! The auction sale at the Hayden Furniture Company's annex, No. 59 State street, is the occasion for such a slaughter of prices as was never before known in Rochester. The most elegant articles, in oak, cherry, mahogany and other rich woods, are being knocked down for less money than the veriest trash would command in the regular way. You'll miss it if you don't take a hand in the matter for your own benefit.

A Trip Through the Beautiful.

There is a heaven, or here, or there—
A heaven there is, for me and you,
Where bargains meet for purses spare,
Like ours, are not so far and few,
Thusana' bees go humming through
The learned groves, 'neath rainless skies,
O'er volumes old, and volumes new,
Within that Bookman's Paradise.

A. LANG.

For a few days, and perhaps longer, books will be sold at our low prices. The red and white volumes, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Reveries of a Bachelor," "Dream Life," "House of Seven Gables," and all the others which all are making such loud cry about, we have been retailing this week at 15 cents a volume, and shall continue until all are closed out.

Have you seen the fine set of Bulwer and Dickens that we are selling for $6 a set—best book bargain in the city. If you want books, stationery, or fine art, beautiful pictures in artistic frames, the only place to obtain the best and lowest price is at C. E. Morris's book, art and stationery stores, Nos. 17 State street and 16 West Main street, Powers block.

THE GIRL WAS SENT WES

But Her Lover Found Her Out and Married Her.

A ROMANCE IN REAL LIF

Alice King and William Smy Wed in Spite of Parental Interference—Sent to Chicago, the Girl's Lover Followed Her—At the Fair.

Chicago has long been celebrated as the city in which men and women who have found the bonds of matrimony uncomfortably confining could get the tie that binds severed with neatness and dispatch—especially the latter, at so much per sever—but if others follow the example of Rochester young people the great Western city will soon possess a sort of Gretna Green reputation, and ministers, not lawyers, will have the bulk of the foreign matrimonial business of the place to transact. The couple to which reference is made consists of a good-looking young mechanic of the city and the young daughter of a well-to-do farmer living near the eastern city line. They recently paid a visit to the World's fair city, but the object of their journey was not that object which calls so many couples thither.

The young man is William Smy, who is employed as a trimmer by the Cunningham carriage manufactory, and the young lady is, or was, Miss Alice King, a daughter of George King, who lives near the widewaters. They are back in the city now. All has been forgiven, and they are happy. And, best of all, they are firmly satisfactorily and undeniably married.

The young people did not go to Chicago together. In fact, it was not exactly a runaway marriage, although it was consummated without the knowledge of the parents of either the young man or his wife. Parental interference was the cause of the young lady's journey to Chicago, and as the young man wanted to see matters, he followed his sweetheart forward and married her. As everyone likes to put a bright face on the matter, it appears that a more satisfactory or permanent way of settling matters could not have been adopted.

Young Smy and Miss King had known each other for six or seven years, and for a long time it has been agreed that they would get married when the proper time came. When Miss King was sent to Chicago, or Englewood, a suburb of the big city, by her father, he made up his mind that the proper time had arrived, and so took advantage of it without delay. The reason, or reasons, for sending the young lady away from Rochester are what give interest and lend a tinge of romance to the story of the marriage.

It has been said by some that Mr. King had a wealthy husband in view for his daughter and that he was determined to prevent the alliance with only well-to-do young Smy. Another reason that is given and which finds the most favor among the acquaintances of the young couple, is that the parents of the young lady thought that they had reasons for believing that Smy was not constant in his devotion to their daughter.

It appears that last summer Mr. King and some of the members of his family went over to Canada for their annual outing. They have relatives living across the border, and among them is a young lady who is a cousin of young Will. Naturally, the young people were together more or less, but the elder Kings decided that it was time, and that Miss Alice should not be allowed to wed the young man.

At any rate, Miss King was sent to Englewood the latter part of April, when that seemed the only course to pursue to keep the young people apart. Relatives of her family live there and she went to live with them. Thinking that matters had been satisfactorily adjusted so far as keeping the couple separated was concerned, Mr. King lived on contentedly at his home near the widewaters, conscious that his daughter was hundreds of miles away from Rochester and William Smy. But love, especially young love, laughs just as loudly at long distances as it laughs at locksmiths, and everybody knows that locksmiths never cut much of a figure in keeping young people apart. It was not in the nature of things that a young man loved her should allow herself tobe hidden away from him. Miss Alice found means of letting William know her whereabouts, and after that only one thing could happen. He went to her. And so they were married.

Miss King had been in Englewood about a month when Smy decided upon a course of action. It was not until Saturday last that he decided to go to her. He worked during the day and in the evening when he went to his home he announced his intention of going to Chicago. As he is a young man with a level head there was no excuse for opposition to his journey to anynne, and so away he went.

The next development was this telegram, which was sent from Chicago late Monday night to George King of this city, the father in the case:

Will found me; married to-night; leave for Rochester Wednesday noon.

This message was signed by Mrs. Alice Smy, for after reaching Chicago the young man had lost no time in having adjusted the tie that binds. He found his sweetheart Sunday, passed the day with her, and on Monday they were married. They helped to make up the immense crowd that visited the exposition Sunday.

True to their word, the young couple began their wedding journey Wednesday, and it ended in Rochester. It is probable that the wise clergyman who performed the ceremony, Rev. John Therle of the Englewood Baptist Church, had advised the sending of the message, and if he did he proved that he knew his business. He paved the way for the advent of Mr. and Mrs. Smy in Rochester and made explanations unnecessary.

Early yesterday morning the young couple arrived in Rochester. They went at once to the home of the bride and therein lately were received literally with open arms. All was forgiven in the joy at the return of the lovers, even though they had done that which every effort had been made to prevent. Their home is at the old King homestead now.

But love, ... especially young love, laughs just as loudly ... at long distances as it laughs at locksmiths, and everybody knows that locksmiths never cut much of a figure in keeping young people apart. It was not in the nature of things that a young man loved her should allow herself tobe hidden away from him. Miss Alice found means of letting William know her whereabouts, and after that only one thing could happen. He went to her. And so they were married.
