BULLETIN NEWS.

W. B. Hopkins has been at Cayuga today. The Universalists picnic at Fair Haven, July 8th. Rev. Father Mulholland went westward on the 11:07.

By to-morrow nothing will be so rare as a day in June. Judge Hall is taking in the refreshing coolness of Cayuga. Prof. Geo. R. Cutting left on the 11:08 train for Waterville.

A S. P. M. mercury was dancing at 95 degrees above zero. Charles F. Pratt, of Rochester University, '84, is in the city. Auburnians will celebrate the Fourth in any place but Auburn.

Logan Hook and Ladder dance and drill at the Opera House, Thursday night. Rev. E. A. Huntington, D. D., and wife have been spending the day at Union Springs.

Evening services at the Universalist church will be suspended during July and August. Hon. W. F. Hughtitt has been appointed examiner of the surrogate's records for this county.

Two coaches of Seward Post picnickers left the Southern Central depot at 9 A. M. for Ennesore. The many friends of John B. Gaylord will be pleased to learn that he is again able to be out.

Mrs. Adams Krouse and family left at 11:02 for a three weeks stay in Kingsport, on the Hudson. T. Eugene Smith, Jr., of New York, is the guest of Charles A. Smith of West Geneva street.

Dr. W. R. Laird left on the 11:15 for Woodport from whence he goes to Utica to spend a few days. J. V. B. Yawger of Union Springs, and F. P. Hotchkiss of Williamsburg, Pa., were at Jeffrey's to-day.

Master George Lamb, of 18 Halbert street, is spending his vacation at his old home in Union Springs. Air in the new mains is preventing a flow of deep lake water to the city, but the difficulty will be overruled in a few days.

The Syracuse Herald of Saturday says: "L. B. Branch of Auburn took a carpenter whose name is Collins from that city, and went to Cardiff to do some work. They put up at a hotel there last night and were assigned to a room together, but Collins went into the room at 11:30 P. M. and told Branch that he could not sleep on a feather bed, but would lie down on the floor. This was all Branch remembers until this morning, when he awoke and discovered, he says, that thirty-four dollars had been taken from his pockets. Collins could not be found. He was traced as far as Brighton, and he is supposed to be in the city somewhere."

Mr. Branch left a complaint and description at the police office in this city from which it appears that the man "Collins" was none other than Ed. Brooks, a dissipated carpenter well known to the Auburn police and who has served about one hundred days in jail during the past winter. As this latest offense was committed outside the county, no warrant could be issued here.

OUR Neighbors. What is Transpiring Among Them as the Year Rolls Around. The Oswego Roller Skating rink closed for the season Saturday evening. Last Wednesday a laundry at Westminister Park, Thousand Islands, was destroyed by fire, but none of the cottages in the vicinity were injured.

In Syracuse yesterday two men tried to commit suicide. One succeeded, the other didn't. The successful man's name is Henry Utach and the other Charles McCord. A supposed insane man the other evening approached the West Shore depot in Syracuse, and fired into a group of men who were on the platform. He was captured and gave his name as Frank Smith of Cortland.

A young man has been operating in the counties of Wayne, Oswego and one or two others in a peculiar way. His plan has been to hire a livery rig, ride out a few miles, obtain a loan of a few dollars, leaving the rig as security, and then he has worked out, extending in the counties named, and is wanted of course. Prof. Chas. P. who recently left Syracuse under a cloud regarding a young lady pupil, has returned and proposes to bring a suit for libel against the lady who first promulgated the charges. Both the professor and the lady stoutly deny all charges of improper conduct and claim the whole thing is a blackmailing scheme.

The whole thing is a blackmailing scheme. The professor says he left Syracuse a few days, that the lady's father of the lady might become convinced that the charges were untrue, and that, unless he had done so, his life would have been endangered. Hooks will drill 96 uniformed men July 2d. A Perilous Feat. At about 10 o'clock this morning, as a gentleman was backing a partially broken old in front of Stafford's grocery on State street, the animal confused among an unusual number of vehicles taking advantage of a momentary loosening of the reins, started and ran towards Genesee street. Those who saw the feat were very much excited. The vehicle behind was soon demolished, but the horse kept on at its dangerous pace. A young man named Manro, saw the runaway, and when the runaway was about at the corner of Clark street, he ran at the flying beast. He caught the horse near the bit and holding for a moment, the horse swung around and then over on the pavement. Manro coming on top. It was a perilous though successful feat, and was loudly praised by those who witnessed it.

How the Wheelers Were Caught. The following dispatch from Troy tells how the wheelers of this city got caught for the Peckskill camp: "Colonel Joseph Egolf, commanding the twelfth separate company national guard (Tibbitts' veterans) visited Albany Saturday and stated to the adjutant general that the Tibbitts corps, while ready to respond to all calls, was opposed to going into camp at Peckskill if the only remaining in the national guard. The adjutant general issued an order relieving the company from camp duty, and detailed the second separate company (Company F), to take the place of the veterans."

Remember the Hooks' exhibition drill and ball July 3d. The Supervisor's Picnic. The Supervisors and their friends had a gala day last Saturday at Fair Haven. There were, altogether about 300 persons in the crowd, and when they arrived at Fair Haven, their first efforts were in the direction of the Myers House and Barnes House where they were served with a fine spread. The remainder of the day was spent as best suited each individual, some taking a sail on the lake, others strolling along its shores. The party managed to amuse themselves in fine style until time to return. They returned to their starting points on the regular train getting to the city about six o'clock. There were 185 who started from Auburn.

The Late W. L. Myers. The remains of the late W. L. Myers of Syracuse, formerly of this city, arrived on the 11:02 train and were taken in charge by Undertaker Cameron, and conveyed to Calvary church, where services were conducted by Rev. Geo. B. Stewart. Mr. Myers was brother-in-law of Rev. Dr. Sears, and left Auburn for Syracuse about twenty years ago. He served during the war, in the Union Army, and was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. The following were detailed from the Central Hudson depot. After the services at the church, the remains were interred at Fort Hill. Dr. Sears and his wife were absent from the city, and no service yet been made aware of the death of Mr. Myers.

Exhibition drill and refreshments at Opera House July 3d. In Supreme Court. In Supreme Court at Syracuse, Saturday: Mortimer v. Austin vs. Squire Cronk, et al. Order of discontinuance granted and certified to Cayuga county. Thomas G. Barber vs. Nathan W. Gorge, et al. Order of reference and decree of foreclosure and sale granted and certified to Cayuga county. And in Onondaga: The board of commissioners of the city of Auburn, et al. vs. Frank Clark, et al. Order of reference and decree of foreclosure and sale granted and certified to Onondaga county.

The prison receipts for June have been $9,860.34; disbursements, $9,813.60; surplus, $467.74. Joseph Bork, Buffalo's ex-city treasurer, came to Auburn with his son yesterday, and departed again at 11:22 to-day. Mr. Bork came down voluntarily to finish up his clerical records in the prison hospital for the month of June, and this task he faithfully completed. Five men were discharged from prison this morning, leaving 821 convicts on hand. The Fourth of July men for Auburn stripes will be made up of 300 pounds of ham, 350 pounds of crackers, 40 pounds each of coffee and sugar, 30 gallons of milk, 350 pounds of cheese, and gingerbread in which will be used 50 gallons of molasses, 100 pounds lard, flour in proportionate quantities and 20 pounds of ginger and spices. The convict who is to be prosecuted who lately put off from his train, near Clevefield, the discharged United States man, McHae, who was on his way home, sick and weak, from Auburn prison. The man was left by the wayside and died soon after being found.

The Teacher's Picnic. While the weather of Saturday was admirably adapted to agricultural and commercial pursuits, it was equally favorable for picnics. So the hundred and twenty-five (more or less) public school teachers and their "sympathizers" who went to Ennesore for the early morning train, had a large margin for a day of unalloyed pleasure. Probably as much solid comfort was atoned away as the dimensions of the day would admit of. All literary exercises were for the nonce under ban. Still the late graduating class essayed a bit-and-miss eulogie, each author contributing a couplet, but it went show-and-the-eclogue will perhaps never be published. The exciting incident of the day was when the steamer Ennesore got caught out in the middle of the lake with a cramp in the steam chest, or something of that kind and whistled lustily for relief. The idly towed her in and after like Close got a fresh cigar and oiled the bearings, the Ennesore was again ready for business. Commodore Clark was a little disgraced in this incident as it was the first time in his career that he had been compelled to call for help. The evening train brought the last fragment of the party reluctantly from the scene of a day's solid comfort. As the jaded and unburdened procession struggled up to the home-headed train some said, others, too tired, only thought, "another year!"

A Horse Beats the Jockey. I was amused at what seemed to me to be a most curious coincidence at Sheephead Bay on Friday last. A friend gave me a quiet tip on the last race, the steeplechase. I laughed and told him I was not going to my tip. He got very much excited at my want of faith, and told me the whole story. Charlemagne was to throw his rider, the rider of Tom Naven was to break his stirrup, and Bommer was to win. To get rid of him I accepted the intimation, but you can imagine my surprise when, after running a mile, the rider of Tom Naven did break his stirrup, which seemed improbable, but they yielded at last, and the mob rushed in and quick they were out of the way. The new wretch had all this time been watching the proceedings in quiet; but when he saw the door go down and the rush of the masked men he threw up his hands and uttered a low, impetuous cry that was painful to hear. He was hurried from the jail, around which a great crowd had collected by this time, and amid yells of triumph the miserable creature was half dragged and dragged to the lot for hanging him. It was near the jail, but at the suggestion of some one in the crowd that he should be hanged from the tree under which he had shot his sweetheart, the crowd, with loud approval, took up the line of march in that direction. The tree was ten or twelve blocks away, and all along the route the yells and shouts were wild. The new wretch in his hands along the way joined in the cries. When the tree was reached his limbs were found to be too low and small for the purpose, and the lynchers passed on a few yards to a tall telegraph pole, up which a man nimbly climbed, and fixing a small rope that had a hangman's noose dangling at the end. Camfield was plucked, and when this was done he was asked if he had anything to say. He replied that he had killed the girl because he was jealous and had quarreled with her. He was sorry for the deed, and felt that he was being served right by the mob. He knew one of them personally and sent word by him to his mother, to the effect that he had tried to reconcile himself with strong arms. He was presently in the hour of death of his victim three women seized the free end of the rope and in a moment were the murderer was dangling high above the heads of the crowd. He had been remarkably cool during all the long time of preparation, and he died without a struggle. A card was pinned to his trousers warning all against cutting the body down until the lynchers had departed. The lynchers cutting it down at five o'clock. There were probably five hundred spectators present at the hanging. The Sheriff says he has the names of seventy persons who participated in the lynching, and that all will be prosecuted. The identity of the lynchers was not closely guarded.

Who Will be Best? EDITOR NEWS AND BULLETIN: The Fourth of July with its bonfires and fireworks, is a dangerous day for fires. I see it announced that on Friday next, our Chief Engineer and both of his assistants are to be out of town. It occurs to me to inquire who, in such cases, will be in command of the department should an emergency arise in which its services should be needed. Have the Fire Commissioners granted all these officials leave to be absent on the same day, are they going without permission or was the newspaper which published the statement, as usual, incorrect? BRUNNOR.

To Be Closed July 4. We, the undersigned hardware dealers, agree to close our respective stores the night of July 3, and remain closed until the morning of July 5th. D. A. SMITH, C. H. Everybody go and enjoy yourself at Opera House July 3d. A Pleasant Wedding. Miss Lala Belle Gower of Troy and Eugene Baxter of Sharon Springs were married in the parlor of the First Presbyterian Church by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hawley, June 28. There was after wards a wedding reception at 18 Orchard street, the home of the sister of the bride, Mrs. A. B. Alexander, where Mrs. Baxter was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. The happy couple subsequently started for Long Branch where they will spend a few weeks.

A ride on the lake, a stroll in the Glen or a rest in the shade. Second Baptist picnic July 2, at Ennesore. Clin's Examination. The case in which Frederick Clin is the defendant has occupied all Recorder Gator's attention to-day. The testimony is of the most disgusting nature and should be given privately instead of before the crowd which fills the space back of the railing in the court room. District Attorney Dressmond appears for the people and Messrs. Warren and O'Brien for the prisoner.

Now that the house-cleaning is done, go and recreate with the Second Baptist Church S. S. at Ennesore July 2. What is the Honor, J. B. Price of Upper Lehigh, Pa., W. H. Sage Jr., of Bethlehem Pa., J. W. Dirwick of New York, J. C. Baird of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Southworth of Lockport, J. W. Dairs of Huntington, and S. Schliesser of Syracuse were in the Opera House to-night.

Four Button Cushey Suits in all the latest patterns, made to order, at one-half price. Ennesore, N. Y. Taught at 5. WASHINGTON - On Sunday, June 28th, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. K. Sandover, 224 State street, Brooklyn, Ohio Ann, widow of the late Wm. Wagoner, aged 87 years, died. Funeral services from 10 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. K. Sandover, 224 State street, Brooklyn, Ohio, at 11 o'clock. Burial at 2 P. M., June 29th, in the cemetery of the Protestant Episcopal Church, with the services of the Rev. Canon.

Logan Hooks will probably hold a meeting to-morrow night, to decide finally the question of going to Utica, which has once more opened by another change in the convention's arrangements. A Mob's Vengeance. The Lynching of Campbell, for the Murder of His Sweetheart, Graphically Described. One week ago Oliver Camfield, followed Mrs. Molly Giffin, his sweetheart, to Vincennes, Ind., and without apparent provocation sent two bullets into her brain. He was arrested the following day at Washington and placed in jail here to await the issue of his cowardly crime, his victim did not die until two o'clock on Monday morning, her physicians pronouncing her long held upon life marvellous, since a channel was ploughed through her brain by the bullet. Her skull was horribly fractured and the brain oozed out profusely. She was bleeding with a vitality which the doctors declare to be astounding. She was unconscious from the hour of the shooting. On Saturday Camfield was taken to see his victim by the sheriff. In her presence he was stolidly indifferent, his only remark being that she did not look natural and that he would like to have a chance to finish her. There were several other men in the crowd, threats of lynching as frequent failures of justice had wrought in the community a conviction that an example to evil-doers was necessary. When Camfield was first brought to town the rope and lamp-post were suggested, but there seemed to be a sort of understanding that nothing should be done until the poor woman should die. On Monday night, after her death was announced, nothing was talked about but Judge Lynch's law. A mob was organized and the police were shown an interest in the matter singularly incompatible with their duties. Early in the evening a crowd began to collect near the jail, an unexpected ringing of the Court House bell drawing many thither sooner than anybody anticipated an attack on the jail. Nothing unusual transpired, however, until a "mobs" was organized. The mob was made up of the watchers behind a masked man creeping to the street light near the jail. He climbed the post and turned down the light. In five minutes all the lights in the neighborhood were out, and by the dim starlight a column of men could be seen marching toward the jail from a street near by. They were under strict military command, and on reaching the prison the leader then addressed the Sheriff, who appeared at the door, demanding the keys. They being refused, orders were at once given to burst in the doors. An iron rail ten feet long was used as a battering ram, the door quickly yielding to the powerful onslaught. Having gained entrance to the corridor, Sheriff Kelly was again called on for his keys; but he said he would do better. He would give them to him.

The lynchers said they did not want to hurt anybody, they only wanted Camfield and they meant to have him. They advised Sheriff Kackley to retire upstairs, and he went. For fifty minutes after this the prison resounded with blows from the sledges against the great steel doors, which seemed impregnable, but they yielded at last, and the mob rushed in and quick they were out of the way. The new wretch had all this time been watching the proceedings in quiet; but when he saw the door go down and the rush of the masked men he threw up his hands and uttered a low, impetuous cry that was painful to hear. He was hurried from the jail, around which a great crowd had collected by this time, and amid yells of triumph the miserable creature was half dragged and dragged to the lot for hanging him. Accurate fitting of the parts of a machine is not all that is needed. Oil is required. Our life functions bring us together, our movements and doings working together. Something is needed to make all work smoothly together. Good manners, courtesy, pleasant behavior, are all that is needed. Some say what have we to do with good manners between master and workmen? Every creaking bearing in the social machine means loss of power. All heading and friction must be avoided. "Fair words better than many blows" is an old adage. But they do much in a store where the clerks are courteous and obliging. So in all things. The faculty of mastery is largely behavior. The man on a committee who is courteous is worth two who are not. Courteous manners and fair words, if they do not put money in the pocket, sweeten life and make it more endurable. -Rev. Brooks Herford.

1893. Coal. Coal. 1894. We take pleasure in calling attention to the present low price of coal and advise securing a winter's supply before an advance in price is made, as we think it has reached the lowest point. We are prepared to furnish the Celebrated Scranton Coal, well screened and in good order. This coal has stood the test of years and is not excelled by any coal in this market. Also Bloss for steam and smelters' use of standard quality and Camel for parlor grates. Thankful for the patronage so liberally extended to us the past season, we assure you we will endeavor by fair and honorable dealing to merit a continuance of the same. Telephone 301. Manro & Hugg. Auburn, N. Y. June 26th, 1894. June 26th. Ten cents a dish, for the best Ice Cream, at Mathews & Exchange street. June 26th. WORTHINGTON MARK - Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the twenty-fourth day of March, 1892, executed by Thomas Lewis and Mary A. Lewis, his wife, of Auburn, county of Cayuga and State of New York, to William A. Beardsley, of the same place, and which mortgage was recorded in the Clerk's office of said county of Cayuga, N. Y., in book of mortgages No. 108, at page 43, at 2 o'clock P. M. of the 24th day of March, 1894, and whereas, the said mortgage was duly assigned to Mary J. Parker, of the city of Auburn, N. Y., and is now owned by her, and whereas, the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage, at the time of the first publication of this notice, is the sum of forty dollars and ten cents of principal and four dollars and twenty cents of interest, which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage. That the whole amount secured on said mortgage is due. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and duly recorded as aforesaid, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises thereto described, at public auction, the front door and front porch of the Cayuga County Court House, in the city of Auburn, in the county of Cayuga, N. Y., on the 24th day of SEPTEMBER, 1894, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day. The said premises are described in the said mortgage substantially as follows: All that tract or parcel of land situate in the city of Auburn, N. Y., being part of the Garraw farm situate on the west side of Warren street, bounded and described as follows: Beginning on the west side of Warren street, two chains and twenty-two links north of land owned now or lately by Warren T. Warren, running thence west, parallel with said Warren's north line, two chains and about fifty links, to land of Doctor Boyer; thence northerly parallel with Warren's street, one chain; thence easterly, parallel with the first line above described, two chains and about fifty links, to the street; thence south, one chain, to the place of beginning.
