BULLETIN NEWS.

Election is progressing quietly. The weather didn't dress up for the occasion.

The annual meeting of the Auburn Female Bible Society will take place at the Orphan Asylum on Thursday at 3 P. M.

A farewell party will be given at the Exchange Hotel, Locke, to his late proprietor, Sam Miller, who has become a resident of this city.

The Robert Emmet Benevolent Association held the 10th anniversary celebration of the birth of Emmet in the north hall, Academy of Music, last evening.

The entire lack of scenic effects could but have a detrimental effect upon the performance of a Shakespearean play.

and "Check" are the next attraction, and they will be at the Academy to-morrow night.

will appear in "La Belle Russe" at the Academy, Friday night.

The shadow of the approaching election had no terrors for the brave city fathers.

The election of the spring of 1883 is nearly over and done with as these words are written.

At two o'clock, 335 ballots had been placed in the boxes in the 1st ward.

The pasters were in great demand in the third ward, too, but at noon two more votes had been cast.

The seventh ward was not a lively scene and a short vote was being polled.

In the ninth ward, 214 votes were considered as being 50 behind the record at 3:20.

In the 10th ward at 2 o'clock 285 votes had fallen into the box.

The 8th Ward Democrat remarked vigorously, "If they're trading in the 6th, so can we."

In the dispute as to which of the justices for sessions were entitled to sit with County Judge Day, which was referred to Hon. S. E. Payne.
