

Burned Three Large Barns on Daniel Williams Farm.

WITH THE SEASON'S CROPS

At a Loss of $5,000 on Which Insurance Is but $2,000—Two Small Fires Here.

Three large barns, containing the season's crop of hay and about 30 acres of wheat, on the farm belonging to Daniel L. Williams, one mile south of De Grotto's Corners in Oswego were damaged by fire on Saturday evening, to the extent of $5,000. No one has been living on the farm for some time and just how the blaze started is a mystery to Mr. Williams, who lives in Mary Street in this city.

The fire started about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and was discovered almost immediately by Mrs. Fred Stupp, who resides on the Swartwout farm some distance away, and who saw the smoke and flames. She called the farmers in the neighborhood together and ran to the Williams farm where a bucket brigade was formed and after much hard work the farm implements and tools which were stored in the barn were saved from the fire.

The house was in danger of catching a number of times but the work of the volunteers prevented anything of this sort from happening. The fire burned until 9 o'clock in the evening before it was finally extinguished.

The loss was severe, there being but $2,000 insurance on the buildings and none on the contents.

An Early Morning Run.

The Auburn fire department was given a run at 1:46 o'clock yesterday morning when a telephone alarm was sent in from Garrett's Hotel and Restaurant. Upon the arrival of the firemen the blaze was discovered to be in an awning over a first floor window on the Water Street side of the building, and was soon extinguished. The only damage was the loss of the awning and the charring of the window frame. It is thought that the fire was caused by some one on the floor above knocking out a pipe over the window sill or tossing a cigarette or cigar butt out of the window. Insurance covers the loss.

Fire in Osborne Street.

At 8 o'clock on Saturday evening the department was called to the premises of No. 142 Osborne Street, where a fire was burning briskly in the basement of the house. The property is owned by Mrs. Thomas J. Neagle, although no one was living in the building at the time. Hose companies Nos. 1, 2 and 4, together with the Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, responded to the alarm and for over half an hour fought the flames. The roof of the building was entirely destroyed while the rear wall was badly damaged. The loss was estimated at about $350, with but a few dollars of insurance. It was thought the fire was of incendiary origin.

FELL FROM TRAIN

New York Man, Badly Bruised, Taken to City Hospital.

A man giving the name of Charles Whitehouse and his residence as New York, who was found lying along the Lehigh Valley tracks in the town of Fleming about three miles from the city, was brought to the City Hospital this morning suffering from severe bruises and cuts about the face and body. Whitehouse, who is 47 years of age, and gives his occupation as a butler, stated that he fell from a moving train on which he was riding and sustained the bruises when he struck the ground. His condition is not thought to be serious.

Bank Messenger Robbed.

New York, Sept. 20.—Vincent J. Maloney, a messenger of the Chatham and Phoenix National Bank, was held up in a Harlem Street today by two men and robbed of a satchel containing $2,000 in cash and a number of checks. While one of the men threatened him with a pistol the other beat him over the head with a blackjack and then seized the satchel. Maloney was seriously injured and was taken to a hospital. The thieves escaped.

HEBREWS MAKE READY FOR EIGHT DAYS' FEAST

Hebrews of Auburn who closed their observance of Yom Kippur Saturday at sunset are now looking forward to their next great celebration, the Feast of the Tabernacle, which continues for eight days beginning on the evening of September 22 and continuing to October 1. During this observance the Jewish people make public avowal that even an industrial civilization, such as ours, depends primarily upon the elements of nature. The Feast of the Tabernacle or the Sukkoth Festival is the culmination of a series of Hebrew holidays of the month. It is not meant as a season of self-congratulation of having garnered in the product of the farm or the grains of business, but as a time for thought on the larger social interests of men.

And When Rock Cut Stone Company Wouldn't Give It 75 Italians and Poles Walked Out—Got 10 Cents More.

WITH THE SEASON'S CROPS

After being shut down for two days as a result of a walk-out of the entire force of 75 workmen Friday morning, the Rock Cut Stone Company's quarry on North Street at the old Beardsley pit, today resumed operations, with the labor troubles settled. It was unlucky Friday for the company when immediately upon coming to work, the employees threw down their tools and refused to continue unless they were paid $2 per day instead of $1.75 as in the past.

When the men came for their pay Saturday night again to ask for the raise, Francis C. Owens, the superintendent of the quarry, after two days' consideration of the problem, offered the strikers the opportunity to begin work at $1.85, thus splitting the difference in the amount formerly paid and that sought by the laborers. An agreement was speedily reached and the quarry with its full quota of employees began as usual this morning with the men receiving 10 cents additional each day.

For the most part the strikers were Italians and Poles who for several weeks have been discussing the strike question, finally coming to a decision to make their demands known Friday. The strikers constituted both the day and night shifts at the plant.

Working Trick is 10 Hours.

Their working day is of 10 hours' duration, the day shift beginning at 7 o'clock in the morning and stopping at 6 in the evening. The night shift comes on at 7 o'clock to work until 6 the next morning. Both are allowed an hour for lunch. At present the shifts are about evenly divided in the number of men.

For some time the laborers have felt that they were failing to receive sufficient wages, and although, it is said, no outside influence instigated the strike, they took this means of gaining their ends. However, in the opinion of Superintendent Owens, the company won in the settlement of the difficulty.

Kept Away From Quarries.

During the time that the men were idle, hardly a one appeared at the quarries and there was no demonstration or damage to property of the company. Friday passed off as a Sunday, but on Saturday Superintendent Owens, realizing that the force of workmen had left with the firm intention of staying away unless their demands were met, succeeded in getting in touch with many, and although no increase in wages was held out as an inducement, several returned to work part of the day.

In the evening all the men were on hand to receive their pay for the portion of the week they had worked, and it was then that the agreement was reached. Today all was as usual at the quarry and indications are that the slight additional wage granted has brought the controversy to a satisfactory termination for all concerned.

A STRIKE IN VENICE

Teamsters Claimed Deal of Five Loads a Day too Great.

County road work on the 90-foot stretch being constructed west of the village of Poplar Ridge in the town of Venice is being hampered today and Supervisor Coral C. Culver, in charge of the job, is much put out over the fact that he is embroiled in labor troubles there. Teamsters hauling stone for the road from a quarry in Ledyard, two miles away, went on strike Saturday night and this morning things did not move as usual.

Supervisor Culver took charge of the job when it was found that a stretch of a mile west of Venice Center would occupy the attention of Superintendent John Bruton to the extent that he would be unable to look after the job and if it was done this week somebody else would have to take over the task of hauling it. Supervisor Culver volunteered to look after it and since the time that work was started 16 days ago, he has been on the job with a rule, a package of Day and Night Scrap and lots of enthusiasm.

Work has gone along nicely, considering the weather, but trouble began to brew Saturday when the teamsters hauling the stone became disgruntled and got to stopping their teams along the road and talking their minds out five trips a day to and from the crusher at the quarry was too much and they decided to ask to have the number of trips cut down to four. They went to the new supervisor and informed him of their opinions, stating that the teams were unable to stand the pace. Supervisor Culver declared that five trips were none too many, that they were not traveling more than 20 miles a day at the most and that he would have to insist on the five trips for the money that the town was paying.

There was some discussion between the teamsters and the boss which finally concluded by some plain talk in which the teamsters stated that they couldn't continue work unless the number of trips was reduced to four and the issuing of an ultimatum by Supervisor Culver to the effect that if they couldn't make five trips they needn't work and the strike was on.

The teamsters say that the trip is too severe on the horse; and they can't stand the journey. Supervisor Culver says that it is only a good day's work and that if the teamsters on the job can't do the work he will get somebody who can.

The teamsters are not organized and a few of them showed up this morning. There are around a dozen of them in all working on the job, most of them from the town of Ledyard, who have been working on the Sherwood road.

Earl Mosher, who is driving a pair of black horses belonging to Clarence Smith and which are about the size of steam rollers was one of them who refused to join in the strike and was on the job this morning. Some of the striking teamsters declare that he has been shirking the loads and that he did not draw the regulation yard and a half. Earl, better known as Joe, declares "that it's all right if you can get away with it" and there was much long loud talk.

Supervisor Culver says that he won't be held up long because if the Ledyard teamsters don't want to work there are plenty of teams in Venice that he can get to do it and he will have a full quota of teams on the job by tomorrow or next day, hauling their five loads per diem.

STATE CENSUS MEN BALLED UP THE FIGURES

And the Official Population of Auburn Is 34,178 Instead of 35,952, or Just 490 Less Than Enumeration of 1910.

After all the State Bureau of Census was only kidding about Auburn's growing bigger. It sounded good and everybody liked it, but there is nothing to it. It is kind of tough to have to go to work and spoil a perfectly fine story telling about how Auburn had gained a goodly number since the last census, but the State Department admits that it passed out the wrong dope September 8, and that Auburn's population isn't what they said it was. Corrected figures show Auburn credited with 34,178.

When the census was taken in June Supervisor of Census for this county Fred H. Wiggins, compiled a table of figures showing the population of Auburn. He didn't claim that they were exactly official but he was pretty certain they were correct, or so close to it that they could be taken seriously. He gazed these figures to the public through the press and most everybody had come to accept the inevitable and to tell why the population wasn't more, when the state came along with some lovely figures showing healthy gains.

The So-Called Official Figures.

According to these official figures the city should have a population of 35,952 or 1,774 more than Supervisor Wiggins could make it and when the supervisor saw them he was perplexed. He couldn't figure out how it happened, but insisted that he was right and that the state yeastakes or the adding machines must have slipped their governor belts, and he forthwith wrote to the State Department in effect: "What do you mean Auburn is bigger?" In the meantime some of those who had been a trifle gloomy because of the apparent slump began to feel better. They were in a jovial mood and they talked to Mr. Wiggins quite a bit about his addition. This didn't improve Mr. Wiggins' frame of mind and he has been waiting patiently to hear from the A.K.A. census men.

Mistake Was in Albany.

This morning the letter came and he was vindicated. The communication stated that there had been a mistake at the Albany office, explaining that the correct count for Auburn, including inmates of institutions is 34,178. The inmates of the various institutions number 1,774. The letter explained that the error made by the state and sent out to the press occurred through the adding of the number of inmates instead of including them only in the total figures.

This sets Auburn back again to about what Supervisor Wiggins said it was and he is satisfied. Auburn should have had 35,952 and would have had them all right and everybody would have been happy if some of those kidders had just passed it by at that instead of trying to "kid" Supervisor Wiggins and show up his arithmetic just at the hour when the most members were around the City Club.

Just for that Auburn has 1,774 knocked off her population in a twinkling, for under ordinary circumstances Mr. Wiggins would just as soon see Auburn chronicle with twice that many. What's a few thousands and population between friends? However, when it came to a point of trying to make him out a — well anyway he thought he would find out who was right and there you are. Some of this joking is carried altogether too far.

The Comparison With 1910.

The official population of Auburn according to the Federal census of 1910 was 34,668 while today, revised official state figures are 34,178 or a loss of 490 in five years.

HAS WINDOW BROKEN

While attempting to move some heavy boxes of merchandise from the curb into the entrance of the Liberman-Levy Company's store in Genesee late Saturday night, one of the boxes slipped and crashed through the large plate glass window on the east. A large consignment of merchandise was bought Friday by a patron who said that he would call for it Saturday afternoon. As the store was closed Saturday in observance of Yom Kippur, the goods were packed and placed on the curb as instructed early in the morning.

For some reason, however, the boxes were not carried away according to the agreement and a passer-by realizing that they were an obstruction, endeavored to move them from the side of the street into the entrance where they would be out of the way. One of the crates was carried all right but the other slipped and smashed through the window. Although the window was not boarded up until late yesterday morning, nothing was stolen from the exposed window display.

The loss from the broken plate glass window was covered by insurance. The Levy-Liberman store was only formally opened to the public a week ago.

CLEAN SCORE FOR CONNORS

Gives Him Fine Start in Gun Club Race for Trophy.

Shooting a perfect score, Henry H. Connors carried off the honors of the day in the regular shoot at the New Auburn Rod and Gun Club Saturday afternoon, and thereby made himself a strong contender for the handsome bronze trophy contributed by the Hercules Powder Company for the marksman making the best total score in three events of 25 birds each. In the first event of 25 birds which was held Saturday afternoon Connors "killed" 25 clay pigeons out of 25 shots.

Some of the other members were also shooting in good form which they even hope to better in the next two succeeding shoots at the new trap course at the spot of the lake.

STACK--SMITH

Well Known Young People Married at St. Aloysius's Church.

St. Aloysius's Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 9 o'clock this morning, when Miss Anna Stack, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Stack of No. 37 Garrow Street became the bride of Greyson Smith of this city. Rev. J. J. McGrath, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a blue broadcloth traveling suit with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Catharine Stack, who was gowned in an Olive green suit and wore a hat to match. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. Percy Smith, a brother of the groom, was the other attendant.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother. Later they left on their wedding trip, which will include points in the East. On their return they will be at home to their friends at No. 16 Pleasant Street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith are well known and will have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and successful wedded life.

One More Typhoid Case.

One more case of typhoid fever was reported to Health Officer Dr. T. C. Sawyer this morning, the victim however, not being now or formerly a patron of the milk route which it was thought was to blame for the epidemic. Although the health authorities would not give the name of the party it was said that it was a girl who had been spending a couple of weeks in the town of Cato, and who was ill when she returned home.

Whether the disease was contracted during her visit in the country as a result of impure water or whether she had become infected prior to her departure from the city, is not known but samples of the water on the farm in question will probably be secured and an analysis made by Health Officer Lang of that town.

Paris, Sept. 20, 4:50 a. m.—Multiple eruptions of the Italian volcanoes are now occurring, says a despatch from Rome. Vesuvius, Etna and Stromboli are all active, a singular phenomena never before recorded. None of the eruptions, however, is of a character to cause alarm.

FIND NO BOOTY NOW

An attempt at burglary at the Bradford Street School was reported to the Police Department this morning. A rear basement window had been forced open and the marauder had evidently gone upstairs from this part and through the building. Fortunately there was nothing of value in the place and no damage was done so far as is known.

A number of the school buildings have been visited during the past week, according to the police, but owing to the fact that the teachers or pupils do not make it a practice now to leave money or valuables in the building over night, no losses have been reported. It was formerly a common thing for some of the teachers to leave cash or jewelry in their desks but the series of robberies last year was sufficient cause to put a stop to this practice.

ROOT AND MOSES

Are Compared at Theatre Service by Rev. E. W. Allen.

Self-control, great faith in God and reliance in prayer were the principal attributes which made Moses, as well as other great leaders, the powers which they were, according to Rev. E. W. Allen, pastor of the Church of Christ, Disciples, who spoke at the Jefferson Theatre service last evening. The subject of the sermon was The Little Plain House Among the Hills of Oneida. In addition to the regular song service led by the chorus choir, the quartette of Central Presbyterian Church, composed of Miss Lenna J. Brooks soprano, Miss Jessica Cuykendall alto, A. L. Hemmingway tenor, and Charles G. Adams bass, rendered two selections which were highly appreciated.

In commenting the service Doctor Allen stated that he had the theme of his sermon suggested to him by a paragraph from the speech of United States Senator Elihu Root, president of the Constitutional Convention, before that assembly in which the speaker stated that he was about to go back to the little, old plain house among the hills of Oneida, overlooking the Mohawk Valley, there to spend his days in peace, and adding that he had always made it the rule of his life to live so that when tired of the battle of life, he could go back there and rest, looking back over his career with contentment of conscience.

After speaking briefly of Senator Root the pastor took up the character of Moses, comparing the two men, whom he pointed out were, in many respects similar. Among their points of similarity were that they were both leaders of men, both were men of spirit and of passion but had trained themselves to a remarkable degree of self-control, both were noted for their great faith in God, and both were firm in their belief in the efficiency of prayer.

In conclusion the pastor made a plea for clean, righteous living among the men of the country saying that he was not going to lay down any set of rules for them to govern their living but that he wished them to live so that when they were ready to retire from the field of active service in the world they would be able to go back to their childhood homes and there sit down and think over, as Mr. Root had said that he was about to do, their careers, with perfect contentment of conscience, knowing that they had done their best in whatever they had been engaged.

Paint Put-on

Think of paint put-on and not by the gallon. A gallon of paint in the can is of no account to anybody. Put it on. Now reckon its cost and value. The secret is: one paint goes twice as far as another. A good one goes twice as far as a bad one.

You have a job, say an average job. It'll take 10 gallons Devco and 12 or 15 or 18 or 0 3/4 middling poor very-poor and trash. You know painter's wages in your town. Put the price of a gallon of paint and the painter's day-wage together. You can't wean't.

Devco costs less than any inferior paint; there are hundreds of them. One paint is as good as another, so long as it lasts good; one lasts months and another years; and the one that goes furthest lasts longest. DEVCO. Smith & Pearson sell it.—Adv.
