Local and Miscellany.

BRICKS.—March winds. A mixed climate. April like showers. Seasonable electricity. Spectacles lost. See the ad. Notice to whom it may concern. See it. Daniel Boone to-night and tomorrow night. Iron frame grenades in large stock, at Paine & Hughitt's. Van Vecbten & Lyon announce cambrio finished prints at 9 cts. Read new ad. of Lyon, Elliott & Bloom, about American Silks.

The Grand Army Committee meet to-night, to arrange details for Decoration Day.

Ground was broken this afternoon, for the excavation of State street, preliminary to paving.

Geo. W. Elliott, Esq., of the Rochester Democrat, spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in this city.

Dr. Hawley's sermon, at the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, was on the recent disaster by the Massachusetts inundation.

The death of W. Fred Schler, formerly connected with the N. Y. Central newsroom in this city, occurred at Rochester on Sunday, where he had been suffering from illness for some time past.

The D. M. Osborne & Co. railway extension was tested on Saturday. An empty platform car was run over the rail, which was found all right with the exception of a too short frog at East Genesee-st. hill.

The strawberry season has now fairly opened. On Wednesday over a thousand crates were received, in New York, and they were all bought up in a hurry at prices ranging from twenty-five to thirty-five cents per quart. The berries now come from Norfolk, Va., mostly, but the Delaware crop will soon be coming, when prices will come down materially. The prospect is favorable for an enormous supply this year.

ANOTHER VETERAN GONE.—The death of Walter Judd, a veteran of the First N. Y. Independent Battery, is announced to-day. He served the full term of four years with that organization, and three years in the regular service. He was a good soldier and a kind husband and father. His disease, painter's colic, with which he was prostrated on Thursday last, although previously suffering from it for four months, terminated fatally on Sunday morning. He leaves a wife and one child.

ENGINEER KILLED.—Charles Hanna, an engineer on the Central railroad, was killed, on Saturday afternoon, beyond Schenectady, near the Athens branch. He was running the pay car to Albany. At the point above mentioned, he saw two engines ahead, pushing a freight train up the grade and east. Thinking a collision would result fatally, Mr. Hanna reversed his engine, and just before reaching the freight train, jumped to the ground. He struck on his head and was instantly killed. The collision was by no means a serious one; the engine was not even thrown from the track; its pilot was broken, and the front slightly damaged. The fireman did not jump, and was unhurt. Mr. Hanna's family reside in Albany, where his body was taken.

CONSOLIDATION.—The basis of consolidation agreed upon by the Ithaca & Athens and the Geneva & Ithaca Railroad Companies, at the meeting on the 14th instant, accepts the two roads and all appertanences, rolling stock, lands, structures, etc., as of equal value. There is but little difference in length of the roads, counting in the sidings of the former. The Ithaca & Athens Company has lands, repair shops, round houses, locomotives and cars in excess of such property owned by the Geneva & Ithaca Company, which equalizes the difference in favor of the super-structure, iron bridges, etc., of the latter, which are new and in good order. It increases the rolling stock to ten locomotives, twelve good passenger coaches, and an adequate number of baggage, freight and coal cars. It secures all the coal freight it can accommodate.

Letchworth Hose No 2 are to have new uniform caps, which are expected to arrive to-morrow.

YOUNG MEN'S PRAYER MEETING at 8 o'clock this evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Social conference at 8:45 o'clock. A hearty welcome for any and all.

It is understood that the Syracuse District Association will return to the old camp near Fairmount for the annual camp meeting the present year.

RESERVED SEATS.—No extra charge for reserved seats to-night, in the lower part of the Opera House, and only fifty cents for reserved seats in the dress circle, at the play of "Daniel Boone."

It is a well known fact the New York store is a very popular place to buy dry goods. A good reason to know this is that Mr. W. A. Reilly has gone to New York again for the third time to buy goods this season.

A CARD OF THANKS. The members of the Germania Glee Club of this city, will please accept the warmest thanks of myself and family, for the regard shown us by the charming serenade on Saturday evening. No mark of appreciation could be more acceptable to us, or more expressive of the kind feelings of our friends from the land of poetry and song. E. D. JACKSON.

BLACK-IRON FRAME GRENADES. One of the largest, most complete and best assortment of these very desirable goods ever offered in this market, can be found at my 255 1/2 PAINÉ & HUGHITT'S.

A CARD. Lyon, Elliott & Bloom have opened another lot of Cheney Brothers celebrated American Black Silks, and are now prepared to furnish them to their customers at the same low prices at which we have been selling them for the past six weeks. Persons wishing to buy Cheney Brothers American Silks, will consult their interest by examining ours before purchasing elsewhere. We have but one price to all, and that price is uniformly less than their goods can be purchased elsewhere in the United States. LYON, ELLIOTT & BLOOM, may 25th, n&w1f.

At 85 Genesee Street, Mrs. A. A. Whelpley has charge of the Dress Making and Cloak Manufacturing department of Lyon, Elliott & Bloom, also of their Butterick Paper Pattern department. Persons desiring to consult her about Patterns, or wishing her to assist them in making selections of Patterns, will find her ready to render any assistance possible. Lyon, Elliott & Bloom manufacture to order dresses, redingotes, and all outside garments for ladies, misses and children, on short notice, and guarantee satisfaction in every respect. LYON, ELLIOTT & BLOOM, 85 Genesee street, Auburn, may 25th n&w1f.

LYON, ELLIOTT & BLOOM have opened a very handsome assortment of Cambrio Percalés at 12 1/2 cents a yard. They are equal in quality to any we have ever sold at 20 cents a yard. Call and examine this great bargain in Percalés. LYON, ELLIOTT & BLOOM, may 25th, n&w1w.

BUTTERICK'S CELEBRATED PATTERNS OF GARMENTS.—The Auburn agency for these patterns is now with Messrs. Lyon, Elliott & Bloom, at 85 Genesee street, where may be found all the latest patterns, and every pattern contained in the large spring catalogue. Butterick's patterns are now so widely known, they need no recommendation. LYON, ELLIOTT & BLOOM, apr 28th, n&w1f.

HEADQUARTERS, 40th REG'T N. G. S. N. Y. AUBURN, N. Y., May 19th, 1874. GENERAL ORDERS NO. 20. In pursuance of orders from Brigade Headquarters, the several Companies of this Command, are hereby ordered to assemble at the Armory in this city, fully uniformed, armed and equipped, according to law and regulation on FRIDAY, MAY 23rd, 1874, at 8:30 A. M., for the purpose of inspection, by Inspector-General W. H. Morris.

By order of JOHN E. SAVERY, Major Commanding Regiment. JAY E. STORCK, Adjutant, may 23rd n&w1f.

Mrs. A. L. Palmer will be pleased to see her friends at Miss Carter's New Millinery Store, 14 State St. my 23rd 1w.

AT COST. Mrs. C. B. Swift Will sell her entire Stock of Millinery and Fancy Goods at cost; wishing to locate East with her husband.

Ladies, now is the opportunity to secure your Summer Millinery. Mrs. C. B. Swift. Mrs. Hotchkiss' Old Stand, No. 105 Genesee-st., over Auburn City Bank. my 23rd 1w.

The Burial of Col. Stewart.

The funeral of Col. Charles H. Stewart took place yesterday afternoon, and was the occasion of the largest gathering of his character ever assembled in this city. Former military comrades and Masonic brethren from nearly all parts of the county were present, in delegations representing various Lodges, to take part in the peculiar rites of the Masonic Order, with which the deceased was prominently connected, and under the ceremonies of which it was his expressed wish to be buried. The clearness of Col. Stewart's mind, up to the time of his decease, enabled him to arrange all details of his business affairs, which were in a remarkable state of good order. He also left directions as to the disposition of his remains, even to the detail of choosing his burial case, and naming Mr. Bulkley as his undertaker. How well the last wishes of the deceased were carried out, was seen in the creditable arrangements effected in answer to his request.

The streets were thronged with people, called out by the desire to take part in, or witness the last earthly honors to be paid the fallen warrior, and the immediate vicinity of the family residence was the scene of a dense crowd, the various military and civic organizations awaiting outside the termination of the services, the house being crowded by the nearer friends of the afflicted family.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. S. W. Boardman, of the Second Presbyterian church, who, in a most feeling and appropriate discourse, paid graceful tribute to the manly nature and kindly qualities of the deceased, touching with eloquent praise upon his patriotic devotion to country, his record as a true soldier, an effective disciplinarian, a successful commander, a good citizen, neighbor and friend, and his provident spirit in an unselfish devotion to family. At the close of the services, the remains, enclosed in a n elegant but simple casket, of handsomely finished black walnut, were removed to the grass plot on the street, where they were viewed by the various bodies in the procession, who were counter-marched, and passed around into line again on Genesee street, preparatory to the march to Fort Hill cemetery. Masonic bodies of the city, including St. Paul's and Auburn Lodges, with large delegations coming by special train over the Southern Central, from Port Byron, Weedsport, Cato, Moravia, and Scipio Centre, from Skaneateles, Waterloo, and elsewhere—three hundred in number, with fifty members of the Veteran Association of the Old 19th Infantry and 3d Artillery, and eight companies of the 49th Regiment, swelled the long line, and formed a display in regalia, badges, and uniforms, seldom witnessed. The draped banners of the regiment were sadly borne by the Color Guard, while the old war horse of the dead commander was led in the procession by the faithful groom, Orrin Irish, a member of Col. Stewart's original company, G. Old 19th, who had cared for the gallant "old Jim" throughout the years of the master's service. The animal, stiff only with age and not from any neglect, trotted the slow march bearing the service-saddle of his departed rider, and was a peculiarly interesting feature of the line.

Maj. Savery handled the regiment with a skill most creditable to himself, the command having devolved upon him in the absence of his superior officers. The civic societies were marshalled by Messrs. Villars Merrill, Jr., and C. W. Edwards, of St. Paul's Lodge. The Weedsport and Port Byron Lodges, fully represented, were under direction of Worshipful Brs. Sylvester Wright and J. W. Barras, respectively, and are worthy of remark for their well filled ranks. The two Lodges, with the other delegations from their neighborhood, returned home by special train, after taking supper at the St. James, where one hundred members were entertained.

The Grand Army was represented in all the various bodies of the line, its members turning out in large number, but not as a distinct organization.

Along the route to the cemetery, nearly every window and doorway on Genesee street was thronged with spectators, while every cross street was blocked with vehicles. The approaches to the grounds at Fort Hill were also filled with the crowds, assembled long before the procession moved, to witness its passage. The line was made up as follows:

Officiating Clergy and Physicians, (Rev. Dr. Boardman, Rev. W. H. Annable, Surgeon Theo. Dimon, Dr. J. F. Creveling.) Band. Forty-ninth Regiment, M. G. S. N. Y. Veteran Association, Old 19th and 3d. Masonic Bodies and Delegations, including: St. Paul's Lodge, Auburn Lodge, Port Byron Lodge, No. 180, Weedsport Lodge, No. 885, Cato Lodge, Delegation, Moravia Lodge, Delegation, Cayuga Lodge, No. 221, Scipio Centre, Delegation, Skaneateles Lodge, Delegation, Waterloo Lodge, Delegation. HEARERS, with the following Banners: Col. T. J. Kennedy, Capt. S. P. Russell, G. B. Quick, Geo. H. Battams, Capt. Jno. Choate, Capt. W. M. Kirby, War Horse with trappings. Family and Friends in carriages.

The stricken wife was accompanied to the grave by the former comrade and Lieutenant of her husband, and his successor in command of his original company, Captain John Wall, who aided Col. Stewart in the organization with which he at first joined his soldier fortunes to those of the Old Nineteenth. The hearse, an elegant affair, and first used in the sad office of bearing the dead hero to his last earthly rest, was draped with festooned flags, and decorated with handsome large black plumes tipped with white, which were procured by Mr. Bulkley for the occasion. At the grave, the location of which is in "Greenwood" section, on the family grounds of the late Geo. W. Cray and Col. Stewart at the east end of the cemetery, the services were conducted by Worshipful Master F. J. Stupp and Chaplain William Searls, of St. Paul's Lodge, of which the deceased was a member, and in response to the wish expressed in his last hours. The Lodge formed in a line around the grave, the military, under command of Maj. Jno. E. Savery, being drawn up in a square outside the circle. The Seward Corps, detailed as the firing company, under command of Capt. E. H. Titus, were in line within the circle. The Masonic burial service was read by the W. M. and Chaplain, and an appropriate hymn was sung by Messrs. Holmes, Ling, Wheeler and Salisbury, under the lead of Prof. E. P. Sprague. Prayer was offered by Chaplain Searls. While the Fraternity were depositing the customary emblematic sprig of evergreen within the grave, the quintette sang, most beautifully, Pleyell's Hymn. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. H. Annable, of the First Methodist church. Three volleys, "company fire," were then discharged over the honored grave, by the Seward Corps, and the ceremony was ended with the departure of the great throng—the greatest ever brought together by any funeral assemblage in Auburn.

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF COL. STEWART.—At a meeting of the Seward Corps, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted: WHEREAS, It has pleased God in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst, our former companion in arms, Col. Charles H. Stewart, and, WHEREAS, We realize in the death of our former Captain, the loss of a true soldier and a congenial friend, and one whom to know was to respect and love; therefore be it

Resolved, That the officers and members of this company, in heartfelt sadness bow in meek submission to the dispensation of Divine Providence, feeling that the loss to us on earth, is his eternal gain in the paradise of God. Resolved, That the heart stricken wife and orphan child, who are thus suddenly bereft of a kind husband and affectionate father, are entitled to our earnest sympathy, and, while we silently mourn with them in this, the darkest hour in their journey of life, we can but point them to Him who has promised to be a father to the fatherless and the widow's God—for consolation, feeling that He doeth all things well.

Resolved, That the officers and members of the company wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of our deceased companion. S. J. FLETCHER, N. S. FOSSESS, DAVID THOMSON, Com.

LARGE EGGS.—Eight inches by seven, or a fraction more or less, have been so often cited by the proprietors of ambitious fowls, that we propose to put an end to all such state exhibitions by the largest egg story ever put on record. Its truth can be substantiated. An egg, perfect in proportion, and not one of the double-yoked variety common to these much vaunted 8 by 7 productions, has been shown as recently, laid by an ordinary barnyard fowl—measuring thirteen inches through the long way, and five inches through the short way, and weighing two pounds.

TEMPERANCE IN SYRACUSE. On Saturday afternoon a formidable demonstration was made by the ladies of Syracuse against the granting of licenses in that city, the Excise Board having announced that time, and the city hall as the place, for a final hearing of licenses. The ladies turned out and prepared what the Standard calls "the largest temperance demonstration Syracuse ever witnessed." Delegates of ladies from the various wards marched to the city hall, filling the room to overflowing, many being unable to gain admittance. The clergymen of the city were also present, and several of them represented the ladies in brief, earnest speeches.

The Commissioners listened to the appeals and received the petitions, by wards. The various petitions against license contained in the aggregate the names of over 5,000 women. Besides these, Dr. Eddy marched through the hall the children of the Belden Cold Water Temple, 1,000 in number, who passed through singing temperance songs, their appearance creating intense enthusiasm among the people present. The Standard says the people went to their homes at the conclusion of the interview, and are now anxiously asking: "What will the Excise Board do?"

POLICE COURT. Session, P. M. MONDAY, May 25. Joseph Corner, attempting to "bare" the market and get up ("or down") a corner on whiskey, was taken from the Central depot, Saturday evening, and given his choice of the four corners of a cell in the calaboose. His speculation flatted out, and he was out himself, just five dollars. Charles Corwan and Wm. Crossby met with an accident on Saturday evening, being virtually put up at auction, and actually "knocked down" by officer James Parker, who is no slouch in a pug nose. He was in pursuit of a drunk and disorderly, Pat Grimm, who dodged into a bench harrack where the two parties above cited, attempted to rescue him by striking the officer, but received a carom which put them in pocket on a mistake of their cue. Grimm skedaddled, but is still "wanted." The first named of these ill-advised obstructors of justice was fined $20 or fifty days; the other, $15 or fifty days. The boys will learn to let officers alone, in the course of time.

McWade's Rip Van Winkle.—A good and most appreciative audience enjoyed McWade's version of "Rip," as presented in his peculiar style at the Opera House on Saturday evening. He gives it a pathos in its feeling parts, and a richness of humor in the comical portions, that are intensely natural and pleasing. The change of plot and minor detail find equal commendation or criticism with his audience, according to their preconceived acceptance of Jefferson's presentation, as given by Boucicault. Those who care for the acting alone, we think will be equally well impressed with McWade. His support is quite as good as the former gentleman's—but both were lacking in several important details, mostly dependant on the aid of the daughter and her sailor lover—perhaps difficult parts to present naturally, but requiring the best of study to become effective. As to McWade himself, we can conscientiously endorse him as a success in his conception of the immortalized vagabond. To varnish old furniture, it should be rubbed with pulverized pumice-stone and water to take off the old surface, and then varnished with varnish reduced by adding turpentine to the consistency of cream. Apply with a stiff-haired brush. If it does not look well repeat the rubbing with pumice-stone, and when dry, varnish it again. Rev. J. T. Wright, of Northern N. Y. Conference and formerly Presiding Elder of this District, returns to Hilton from Georgia, where he has spent several months, much improved in health. The Methodist Advocate, of Atlanta, describes in highly complimentary terms the influence of his visit to that city. The N. Y. World says:—"Boston capitalists are besought to raise the wind for a flying machine invented in Auburn, in this State." The flyer is awaiting the arrival of its inventor, who is in Boston. An easterly current of currency might raise the thing, if properly blown in this direction. J. ELLESTON, Florist, Capitol Hill, Franklin street, Care pass Green House every fifteen minutes. jan10thm.

JOHN A. STEVENS AS DAN BOONE.—This and to-morrow evening, at the Opera House, the actor, Mr. John A. Stevens, will well selected company, will pre the sensational Western play Daniel Boone, or the Pioneer Kentucky, with an opening of each night. Miss Carlotta, charming actress, appears as heroine of the play. The following show how Mr. Stevens appreciated at the West: At the close of the third act Stevens was tumultuously encircled and before the curtain, he indulged in one of those prompt flights of eloquence we always cause a spasm of regret the thought it compels that a great orator was spoiled when Mr. Stevens decided to become a theatrical manager. The play was "Daniel Boone," with Mr. Stevens in the title-role. His rendition of the was one betraying not only a study and analysis of the character, but a marked adaptability to all its intricacies of sentiment and philosophy.—Kansas City Gaz. Of the rendition of the play have nothing but praise to best. The audience by their repeated applause clearly showed that it satisfied and pleased. On our we were not surprised to see Stevens act so well, having seen him several times before. We were with the expectation of seeing do well, and were not disappointed. Mr. Stevens is one of the finest actors on the American stage.—A. son Times.
