TO AUBURN THE DEATH OF COL. JAY E. STORKE IS A BLOW. As the head of one of the largest financial institutions of the city he was closely allied with Auburn's interests and was always interested in the success of every enterprise which would add, even in the smallest degree, to the city's advancement.

THE BUSINESS MEN of State street between Wall and Seymour, have good reason to complain regarding the delay in laying the pavement in that street. The thoroughfare has been unpassable for a period which would have been ample for the completion of a large section of the road, which has not been touched.

INDIANAPOLIS, THE HOME of President Harrison, has gone Democratic by an overwhelming majority, but the result is not indicative of any substantial turn of the tides in favor of the Democracy, and contains nothing discouraging for the Republican cause generally.

BEATEN BOSSES.

James E. McGuire, the young Syracuse orator, won a notable victory over party bosses Tuesday when he was unanimously nominated for mayor by the Democratic city convention.

COL. JAY E. STORKE DEAD.

THE STROKE OF APOPLEXY ENDED IN DEATH MONDAY EVENING.

The Popular President of the Cayuga County National Bank, Mr. Jay E. Storke, died at his residence early Monday evening.

His death is a blow to the city. He was a man of high and low degree, his disease had produced a feeling of personal loss which is not by any means confined to any section of the community.

The circumstances surrounding his death are peculiarly sad, not only by reason of the fact that it was shockingly sudden, but because the hour of triumph in the attainment of his ambition was so near.

Mr. Storke was a member of Crocker Post, G. A. R. of this city, and a member of the Local Legion. He leaves two cousins, residents in this city.

In the matter of the estate of Mary Flynn, deceased, of Scipio, James A. Gould and Joseph Hodson were appointed appraisers.

In the matter of the estate of James Brick, deceased, and waivers filed. Citation issued to Nov. 19.

EXPLOSION IN A MINE.

Several Men Hurt and Others Probably Dead.

Five Taken From THE SHAFT. One of the Victims Tells What He Knows of the Disaster, But the Mine Authorities Refuse to Talk of the Accident.

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Oct. 8.—A terrific explosion of gas has occurred in the Inorance mine, operated by the Lehigh Valley Coal company, which is situated in the northwestern part of the city.

The officials are very reticent and it is almost impossible to get any information from the levels of the earth where the rescuers are at work.

Five men, all badly burned, were brought to the surface. They are: ROBERT BLANCHARD, aged 19; WILLIAM MILLER, aged 21; MICHAEL MOSS; GEORGE LAFAY; JOSEPH MURPHY.

The first two are members of the engineer's corps. Moss and Lafay are laborers and Murphy is a driver.

Blanchard gave his version of the explosion to a reporter as he lay on a cot in the hospital.

The engineer corps decided to make a survey of a portion of the old abandoned workings known as the Baltimore section and which underlie the grounds of the Wilkes-Barre baseball club.

Miller, with his broken arms, could render him no assistance, and Blanchard was pinned down by debris that he could not make use of his hands.

Moss, Lafay and Murphy were afterwards brought to the surface. They, too, were badly burned and were taken to the hospital.

LATER.—The engineer corps and laborers, eight in number, have been discovered. All are dead. Their bodies have been brought to the surface.

This is the first opportunity I have found to write and thank you for the good your Compound has done me. I feel better than I have for years. It seems a seven days' wonder to my friends. Where I use it to the point, everything is the opposite, and there is not a day but what some one wants to know what I have done to work such a wonder.

Before taking the Compound I had constant headaches; was constipated; bloated; eyes weak; with watery whites; bearing down pains; pains in the small of my back and right side; took cold very easily, which always caused intense pain in ovaries. I did not want to go anywhere or see any one.

I was called cross, but I could not help it, feeling as I did. I could not lift anything or do any hard work without aching for days afterward. Menstruation lasted from eight to ten days, the first two or three days being in almost constant pain, day and night.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made a new girl of me; am now well, happy, and strong. Yours truly, a strengthened woman, Dorcas, Col.
