THOMAS C. TALLMAN, CIVIL WAR VETERAN SUCCUMBS

Thomas C. Tallman, one of the best known veterans of the Civil War in Auburn and vicinity, died Sunday evening at his home, No. 12 Evans Street.

The deceased had not been in the best of health for some time but his illness was not thought to be particularly serious.

Mr. Tallman was a past commander of G.A.R. organizations in this city and was actively interested in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the veterans of '61 to '65.

The death was particularly sad, coming as it did on the eve of Memorial Day, with the annual services and dedication of monument, in the former of which he was an active participant in the years gone by.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. from the house with burial in Fort Hill Cemetery.

Howard Child Dies.

The death of Helen E., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Howard, occurred Monday afternoon at the Mercy Hospital after an illness of several weeks' duration. Helen was a student of the St. Aloysius School and her loving disposition made many friends for her among her classmates.

Besides her parents, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Alfred Davis of Syracuse, Mrs. Frances White and Miss Margaret Howard, both of this city; also three brothers, Raymond, Edward and John Howard, all of Auburn.

Funeral services will be held from the home, 121 Van Anden Street, Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock with services at St. Aloysius Church at 10:15. Burial will be made in the family plot in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

ITALIANS HAVE FINE FIREWORKS, PARADES, MUSIC

The Italian residents of the city celebrated the Feast of St. Michael with church services Sunday, and with band concerts and fireworks and other festivities in the western part of the city.

They had a truly enjoyable time and no accident marred the enjoyment. The Italian band under the leadership of Bandmaster Pasquale Nicisio headed parades through the streets of the West end, played concert selections from the band stand off South Division Street opposite Kellogg Street and the locality was thronged with hundreds of the children, the youths and misses and the aged people of the section.

The festivities culminated last night with the exhibition of some of the most elaborate and beautiful fireworks ever shown in Auburn. The pieces were set off by representatives of two fireworks manufacturers, Mose Dehisio of Springfield, Conn., and Michael Nania of North Bergen, N.J.

The fireworks consisted of many small set pieces to the more elaborate and beautiful larger pieces, interspersed with the deafening and yet beautiful bomb pieces. Balloons were sent up at intervals and they floated prettily in the cloudless sky over towards the northwest.

A portion of one of the bombs landed in a pile of telephone poles stored in the Lehigh freight yards of the Ithaca Division nearby, setting fire to the creosote coated poles. In a jiffy the pile of poles went up a blaze which rivaled the fireworks for blaze and light.

The Lehigh yard engine was working in the vicinity and soon a length of hose was attached to the engine and a stream of water played on the pile. The fire was under control before an alarm was sent in to the Fire Department and the firemen were in time to see some of the fires even if their services were not actually needed.

Chief Jewhurst as a precaution directed that the pile receive a soaking with chemicals in order to put out any sparks which might have lodged in crevices between the poles.

The fireworks exhibition was witnessed by thousands of Auburnians from the babes in arms to the aged. South Division and all adjoining streets and fields were packed with cars and the midway leading to the fireworks' field was packed with humanity, all good natured and orderly. The Italian societies had booths which did a thriving business Saturday and Sunday and Monday. It was well along in early morning today when the band escorted the crowds way home and the celebration was over.

The committee in charge of the highly successful celebration was composed of the following hustlers: President, Frank Stelmach; secretary, Frank Manzarek; treasurer, Stephen Milliole; committee members, Giuseppe Spinelli, Vito Marylollo and Cuetano Nardelli.

FIRST M. E. PAYS TRIBUTE TO HEROES

The heroes who made the supreme sacrifice in the Civil War and the World War were given tribute at the memorial services held Sunday evening at the First Methodist Church under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. C. Rossell. A special program had been arranged with patriotic music, under the direction of Miss Alice Jones, organist, feature.

Preceded by the cross bearer and acolytes, the long line of young ladies each clothed in white, marched from the society rooms to the main entrance to the church, and proceeding up the center aisle, they took their places before a shrine of the Blessed Virgin erected in the sanctuary. Surrounded by a profusion of flowers, brilliantly lighted by candle and electric bulbs, the figure stood out as the center of devotion on this occasion.

A large congregation was present to hear the young ladies make their promises to their patroness, the Blessed Mother Mary.

During the services the choir sang solemn vespers, and an eloquent sermon was delivered by Rev. Thomas H. Lochren, a former director of the Holy Family.

Very Rev. Dean J. J. Hickey, V. F., the pastor of the church, was the celebrant of vespers, Rev. Edward M. Lynch, assistant pastor, was deacon, and Rev. Paul Gaffney, assistant pastor, was subdeacon. After the sermon Dean Hickey blessed the medals worn by the young ladies presented to each of those received with the manual of devotions, and received their promises of faithfulness to the rules of the society.

The people of the city have come to look upon these annual exercises especially because of the elaborate musical program rendered by the Holy Family Choir, one of remarkable ability for a city the size of Auburn. Under the direction of James A. Hennessy, this organization has developed to a high degree of proficiency in the rendition of church music, and it is looked upon by many in Catholic Church circles as the premier choir of the Rochester diocese.

The pastor had praise also for the men of the Spanish War and the great World War. The heroes who gave their lives for their country. He welcomed their veterans and their auxiliary organizations to the service speaking of the great influence for good patriotic societies have.

Doctor Rossell paid high tribute to the valor and patriotism of the boys of '61 saying they saved the union so it might grow to be the mighty nation it is today.

The pastor had praise also for the men of the Spanish War and the great World War. The heroes who gave their lives for their country. He welcomed their veterans and their auxiliary organizations to the service speaking of the great influence for good patriotic societies have.

At the close of the service, the patriotic organizations marched from the church, the rest of the congregation waiting until they had left the church. All patriotic societies had been invited to attend but because of some confusion other organizations attended different services.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD FOR MISS ELEANOR SCHLUTER

The funeral of Miss Eleanor Schluter, the popular young Auburnian and organist at the First Baptist Church who died last Friday following an extended illness, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home 84 1/2 North Fulton Street with concluding services at First Baptist Church at 2:30. From the standpoint of attendance, floral tributes and special church musical arrangements, it was the most notable funeral the city has seen for many months.

Rev. Kenneth Pland Bowen, pastor of Central Church of Christ Disciples, officiated at the church ceremonies, while Prof. Arthur Van W. Eltinge of Syracuse, a former musical instructor of the deceased girl presided at the organ. Both church auditorium and choir loft were draped in deepest black.

The musical program, which was in the hands of Charles G. Adams, a member of the First Baptist quartet and director of the choir, included appropriate organ solos and both choral and solo vocal selections.

The organ numbers which were three in number, comprised Chopin's Prelude in C minor, Andante from Mendelssohn's Sonata in A minor and Schumann's Traumerei. The hymns rendered included Jesus, Lover of My Soul and Lead Kindly Light. An attempt was also made to render the hymn God Will Be With You, by the quartet but so overpowering were the emotions evoked by the opening strains that the singers all warn personal friends of the deceased were unable to go on, and the hymn was continued as an organ solo, by Professor Eltinge.

The choir participating in the musical program included prominent choristers from other churches as well as members of the First Baptist Choir and Glee Club. They were as follows:

Soprano—Mrs. Vera Hill, Miss

Mabel Wilson, Mrs. R. E. Deicles,

Miss Ruth Hanning, Miss Lene Parker, Miss Dorothy Johnson.

Contralto — Mrs. Benjamin C. Mead, Miss Winifred Mott, Miss Jessie Cuykendall, Miss Elizabeth Huntzman, Mrs. W. H. Depew, Mrs. John O. Bruce, Miss Lavinia E. Pace.

Tenor—Charles W. Embrey, Richard E. Eccles, James C. Avery, A. H. Johnson.

Bass—Albert C. Cook, Charles G.

Adams, William B. Dunning.

The beauty and lavishness of the floral tributes even in the season of flowers was impressive to all.

Magnificent creations from personal friends, clubs, societies, and various other organizations with which the deceased was associated through her ability as an accompanist and vocalist gave mute testimony of the admiration and esteem in which she was held by all.

The bearers were Gordon King, Robert Austin, William Wiene, Lloyd Bowden, Floyd Curtis and Howard Bristol. Burial was made in Fort Hill Cemetery.

Cather O'Neill is injured.

Detroit, Mich., May 31.—Cather O'Neill of the Cleveland Americans may be out of the game for some time owing to an injury to the second finger of his throwing hand. It was hit by a fast ball while batting against Elmke. It was believed a bone was fractured. His injury leaves the champions without a first string catcher. Numaker also being on the crippled list.

MAY DEVOTIONS CLOSE AT HOLY FAMILY CHURCH

On Sunday evening at Holy Family Church there took place the closing of May devotions, and the annual reception of new members into the Young Ladies' Society.

preceded by the cross bearer and acolytes, the long line of young ladies each clothed in white, marched from the society rooms to the main entrance to the church, and proceeding up the center aisle, they took their places before a shrine of the Blessed Virgin erected in the sanctuary.

Surrounded by a profusion of flowers, brilliantly lighted by candle and electric bulbs, the figure stood out as the center of devotion on this occasion.

The record speaks mighty well for the people of Auburn," said the chief and it did, considering the large crowds which flocked the streets yesterday morning, afternoon and evening.

Memorial Day of 1921 established a record for orderly crowds and safe and some enjoyment of a national holiday.
