BRIEF MENTION.

The Auburn Amateurs play the Stars a game of base ball at Beward Avenue Park to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Uncle Tom's Cabin at the Opera House, Saturday night.

A butcher's clerk, who was imprisoned in a refrigerator for two hours, on his release said he felt as though he had attended a fashionable church service.

Any soldier of the late war who was at any time a prisoner in Andersonville will confer a favor upon numerous comrades by communicating with F. F. Snow at the Ithaca postoffice.

A new iron fence will be erected along the river, in front of Sing Sing, which will render escape from the prison almost impossible. It will be built of two inch tubes ten feet long and six inches apart connected together in sections of ten feet by strong iron posts.

The Oswego Morning Herald discontinued publication Saturday last.

Watson, Neyhart & Co. have a new advertisement in another column. The advantage of receiving daily stock reports at 10:30 and 11:30 A. M. and at 1 and 2 P. M. will be appreciated by the business men of Auburn.

A Canadian firm have adopted the following novel method of ridding their store of flies: While the store is closed on Sunday, they burn a quantity of brimstone in their windows, and the fumes arising from it suffocate all the flies that go to the window to be near the light: Fully three pints of dead flies are found in the window every Monday morning. As they are very thick this season this mode of getting rid of them is very effectual.

The Buffalo Express says: "Billy Birch, on a recent fishing excursion hauled up an immense bullfrog. No sooner had the new arrival opened his mouth than Billy exclaimed, 'Good gracious, Charley Backus, I thought you were in Chicago.'"

"Hand us over a little cash, so we can go to the country with Beecher and get the hay fever," is the way the Troy Standard asks for remittances from delinquents.

The indications for to-day are stationary temperature, rainy, followed by partly cloudy weather.

Rumor confounds Edward O. Kingman, veterinary surgeon, with Lorenzo L. King, V. S., now in jail. Mr. King who is in jail, and Mr. Kingman who is out of jail, are equally aware that rumor is mistaken as usual. Mr. Kingman is attending to business as usual.

Dr. MacDonald Taken Ill.

The following from the Binghamton Leader will be read with regret by the numerous friends of the distinguished gentleman referred to:

"Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, the superintendent of the state insane asylum, was expected in this city on Tuesday last, but this morning President R. A. Ford received a letter from him explaining why he had not arrived here.

The architect, Mr. Perry, had arranged on Monday last to meet Superintendent MacDonald at Utica where, after visiting that asylum, they were to likewise visit the asylums at Ovid and Auburn. Mr. Perry met Superintendent MacDonald but found him in poor health, and after going through the Utica buildings they repaired to Auburn, but Superintendent MacDonald was too ill to resume the business and Mr. Perry went through the Auburn Asylum alone. The letter to day says that he (Superintendent MacDonald) has since then been confined to the bed with an attack of fever, and that now it has subsided and that he is convalescent. He further writes that unless he suffers a relapse he will be here on Monday next.

The Woodruff Family

The Rochester Express announces that the second annual reunion and picnic of the Woodruff family and their descendants will be held at Long Point on Conesus lake in Livingston county, N. Y., on Wednesday, September 8, 1879, at 11 A. M. Persons from a distance can reach Long Point by carriages which will be in waiting at Livonia Station on the Erie railroad, in charge of Norton Gibbs. The steamer Jessie will leave Lake View at 11 A. M., and convey persons to Long Point, returning at 3:30 P. M. A general invitation is extended to all of the name of Woodruff and their descendants, and it is hoped that those who expect to be present will notify the Secretary, Oscar Woodruff, at Dansville, N. Y.

Juvenile Burglars.

The lads aged 11 and 15 years respectively are in trouble. On the night of the 10th inst the Grocery Store of M. H. Hogan, No 9 North street, was entered by burglars and a quantity of cigars and some loose change stolen. From the manner in which the entrance was effected Mr. Hogan arrived at the conclusion that it was the work of boys. Not satisfied with the result of their first exploit, a job was arranged by the boys for going through the same store the second time last night. When the hour arrived to commence operations one weakened, and the other visited the place alone, and was caught while removing the pane from a light of glass in a rear cellar window. He was taken to the station house and made a clean breast of the affair, implicating his pal, who was subsequently arrested. They will be disposed of this afternoon.

The Woodport Convention.

The Greenback convention for the first assembly district which was to have been held Saturday was postponed on account of the terrific storm. It is now set down for the 23d. A meeting in the evening will be addressed by James Hunter.

THE FIREMEN'S GALA DAY.

THE AUBURN FIRE DEPARTMENT'S ANNUAL MARCH.

A Most Creditable Display—The Number in Line—Guests from Abroad, Etc., Etc.

The annual parade of the Auburn Fire Department occurred this afternoon. At 1:30 P. M. the signal for assembling was sounded on the First Presbyterian Church bell. After the different companies had been assigned to positions, the column moved through the different streets as per published programme, in the following order:

Squad of Police under command of Officer Sylvester Houghton.
49th Regimental Band.
Chief Engineer Morris and Assistants Jewhurst and Spence.
Neptune Hose Company No. 1, 35 men.
Letchworth Hose Company No. 2, 22 men.
Niagara Hose Company No. 3, 19 men.
Cayuga Hose Company No. 4, 17 men.
C. N. Ross Hose Company No. 5, 16 men.
Alert Hose Company No. 6, 23 men.
Logan Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, 25 men.
Board of Fire Commissioners, Messrs. Peat, Batters and Wilder, Common Council and invited guests in carriages.

At the conclusion of the parade the department was reviewed by Mayor Osborne and the other members of the common council who were not absent from the city. After this ceremony was finished the various companies were assigned to hydrants on Genesee and adjoining streets. Owing to the inability of the Water Works company to have the steam pumps repaired, the great trial of attempting to throw a solid stream of water two inches in diameter, fifty feet over the spire of the First Presbyterian church, was necessarily postponed, much to the disappointment of the firemen and the guests from abroad.

Among the distinguished firemen from abroad who were present, the following were noted: Chief Engineer Almon Boys, of Ithaca; Chief Engineer Ira Wood, of Syracuse; Henry W. Waterston, secretary executive committee of State Firemen's Association; R. H. Huntington, Adams, N. Y.; W. S. Newman, member of executive committee State Firemen's Association, and Reuben Calkins, Chief Engineer Colcocks.

The display of bunting along the line of march was profuse and in nearly every instance where the stars and stripes were flown to the breeze the old flag was reverently recognized by a proper salute. The men made a creditable appearance and marched with the precision of veterans.

The visiting firemen who arrived Saturday were handsomely entertained yesterday by the fire commissioners, Chief Morris and assistants and other members of the department. Through the hospitality and generosity of Superintendent J. G. Knapp they enjoyed a delightful sail on the beautiful Owasco in the afternoon in his launch and fast steam yacht. Through the courtesy of Major Boys, and at the invitation of Hon. John S. Brown, the strangers were conducted through the political prison.

Camp Meetings This Week.

The Auburn district camp meeting convenes to-morrow at Auburnville, in the town of Throop, and continues until Thursday, the 28th inst.

Syracuse district will hold its annual meeting on the same date as above, on the large and commodious grounds at Fairmount, on the Auburn branch of the Central-Hudson road. All trains will stop.

The Oswego M. E. Churches will meet with churches from the adjoining towns and villages, at the camp near New Haven commencing Aug. 21st and closing on the 29th.

The branch of the Methodist church known as the "Free" Methodists, including the congregation in and about Oswego will hold their camp meeting at Alton on the Lake Ontario Shore railroad commencing Wednesday, the 20th.

The Utica district will meet at Trenton.

Seasonable Hints to Campers.

An exchange contains the following sensible suggestions from an old camper:

Collect the wits of your party at leisure before the eventful day of starting arrives, and make a complete list of the articles which you would be likely to absolutely need. It is awkward to get all settled in camp and find the fryingpan, tea, or some other indispensable thing missing. Avoid all useless luggage. Carry all camp equipments with you, tent-poles, tent-stakes, etc., included. Always, if possible, ask permission of the owner of the land to pitch your tent in his domain and in any case avoid committing trespass, such as cutting green timber or even shrubs, injuring crops, etc., just as strictly respecting the rights of private property holders even in uninhabited parts as if it were in the most valuable improved grounds. You will always find plenty of excellent fuel on the beach, near which you will camp if wise. Use the smallest quantity of fuel—a handful of dry bits of bark will suffice to boil your tea-kettle or potatoes. Avoid blazing camp fires, especially in a dry time, and always be sure to pour water on the fire before leaving the camp alone, until you are sure every smouldering spark is extinguished. Never pitch a tent in a hollow where it will be flooded in case it rains, and ditch around it if necessary. Burn waste scraps of food: they will attract vermin. Go fishing near sunrise and sunset, and "lay off" during the heat of the day. Always use bathing dresses when bathing near inhabited points, or where parties are liable to pass. Treat all with whom you come in contact with courtesy; the good-will of a dog is better than his ill-will. Leave all chronic grumblers, and those who are not willing to make the best of everything at home. Exception—one such in a party will be found endurable as a butt. Ice will keep a long time if wrapped in a cloth and put inside a firkin, and the firkin put inside a cotton sack, which must be kept wet. These suggestions are offered by an old camper, who hopes you may have a pleasant party and good weather, and take great comfort and "much fun."

What Next?

The Rochester Democrat contains the following account of a new dodge successfully played by sharpers in the "flower city" during the week:

"Among the many devices used by the ungodly who covet the goods of their neighbors and endeavor to get them at all hazards, was a new one to the city practiced during the week. It has its origin in the silver bill and can be traced to the large quantity of that coin that is flooding the country. It was played successfully on several of our merchants and the modus operandi is as follows: A party enters a store and contracts for a small purchase, say twenty-five cents in the amount. He then throws down a five or ten dollar bill, stating he has no objection to taking silver in change. This is duly counted out, and the person draws it near him. Just then another party enters, recognizes the first, calls him by name and asks him what he is buying. The purchaser is prompt in giving the information, and the other one says: 'Oh, you don't want all that silver, take your bill back and I will pay the quarter.' This proposition is accepted. The bill is returned, the quarter paid by number two and the silver change lying on the counter is pushed back to the storekeeper or clerk. In doing this last act, however, the first party adroitly palms two or three silver pieces and the change is proportionally short, unbeknown to the time to the unsuspecting seller. This was practiced successfully in an East Main street bookstore last week where the confidence man made $1.75 by the operation. Other stores were visited, and altogether quite a haul was made.

AQUATIC.

Hanlan prefers Chautauque lake to Saratoga as a racing course.

The single scull three mile race Saturday between George W. Weingerber and Louis Feisinger, for $1,000, was won by the former by a length. Time, 21:15. The race was witnessed by five thousand persons.

Courtney says he thinks he can beat Hanlan, and Hanlan says he thinks he can beat Courtney, but thinking alone will accomplish nothing. It is nowing that the people want to see. When the match is made, if ever, it should be called the newspaper men's match.—Both Dem.

Hanlan, who is entered for the single scull race in the regatta which commences at Barre on Monday, arrived Saturday. Plaisted, Morris, Kennedy, Riley, Hosmer and others have been there most of the week. The regatta continues three days. The prizes amount to $29,000.

Theron E. Parsons has been chosen referee for the Charlotte regatta on Wednesday and Thursday next. The professional single scull race, open to all, for which Charles E. Courtney and Frenchy Johnson have already entered, distance four miles, $300, will wind up the first day's sport.

Goodman, of the Towhee House, shelled out his little $100 for the Sullivan Centennial.

The Regular Monthly Meeting—What Was Said and Done.

The hearts of the noble women of the Christian Temperance Union must have been gladdened last night as they beheld the large assemblage gathered in the 1st M. E. Church, on the occasion of the monthly temperance service. Every seat was filled, and close attention was given to the earnest words which came from the pulpit.

Rev. William Seales conducted the exercises and introduced as the first speaker the Rev. L. L. Briggs, of the Universalist church. Mr. Briggs spoke chiefly of what was termed the "community of interest." Where men are dwelling together, an evil which affects one must affect all, to some degree, and for the common good the evil should be rooted out. He also referred in strong terms to the pollution of our beautiful Ensenore by the sale of intoxicants there.

Rev. G. B. Stewart, of Calvary church, dwelt upon the "tremendous power of the enemy," and illustrated his subject by statements of actual cases in which the "run power" was victorious. Closing, he made an appeal to the men to rouse from their indifference and join with the women in the crusade against intemperance.

Rev. H. G. DeWitt, of Canandaigua, followed up Mr. Stewart's closing theme, and rang quick changes on the humorous, pathetic and practical aspects of the matter. Finally, he prophesied in eloquent words the complete overthrow of alcoholic power, which would occur at no distant day.

Mr. Seales threw in many interjectory remarks in his pleasant way during the evening, and his announcement that he would preach a sermon on "sample rooms" at his earliest opportunity met with a general approbation.

Genoa.

Genoa, August 15.—While the rain is holding off the farmers are improving the time.

A pleasant time is reported by the picnickers at Mosey's yesterday. Although the company was small the element of fun was large.

We are glad to announce that our old corps of teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanMarter are to stay with us another year. The fall term opens Sept. 1st.

Seneca Falls.

Seneca Falls, Aug. 18.—Several wild ducks have been seen flying already, and the "boys" have "an itching palm" to get at them, though they must wait until the first of September.

The patrons of the Revellite and the News can now read some choice tid bits between Stowell and Childs.

Court will be in session at Waterloo to-morrow. The Hoster-Pontius cause will be tried, at least the witnesses have all been subpoenaed.

The Ruddy families held their picnic at the lake, Friday last.

The famous Baslow, Wilson, Primrose & West Minister Company are, it is said, to appear here August 21st. Hope so.

A Mr. Crossman, of the firm of Crossman Brothers, seed dealers, Rochester, was in town Thursday and Friday of last week. It is our painful duty to record the death of our young townsman, Mr. Delancy E. Partridge, who died at his residence on Cayuga street, Sunday morning about three o'clock. It is needless in us to dwell upon or refer to the many sterling characteristics of the deceased. Those who knew him personally, and yet those who knew him otherwise, can tell of the many deeds that stamped him a warm hearted, yet even "generous to a fault" man that he was, and legions of princes remain behind him that are living monuments to his effect. Deceased was at the time of death cashier of the First National Bank, a position he had occupied or filled for sixteen years. He was in his thirty-sixth year and leaves a wife but no children. Funeral from late residence Wednesday afternoon at about three o'clock. We are not positive as to the exact time at time of writing.

NEDHANLAN'S PURCHASES.

BOAT BUILDER ELLIOTT ON THE CANADIAN'S SUCCESSES.

Three Oarsmen Who Can Beat the Kanack—Wallace Ross' Say—Some Serious Charges.

Last Monday Charles B. Elliott, skinner of Hanlan and of the Hanlan Club, known the world over as a boat builder, and now presiding for his second term as Justice of the Fourth District Court of Brooklyn, on reading the telegram announcing the amicable dissolution of the club, expressed his surprise and said it would "result in giving some developments."

"Have you any objections to giving a short statement concerning what you know of that famous organization?" inquired a Herald reporter.

"Well, I have frequently told you, when asked, that I would much rather some other person would start the ball, for when it begins to roll it will crush a good many people. I always had the greatest confidence in the Hanlan Club. I esteemed its members as individuals of probity and integrity, and looked upon Mr. Hanlan himself as a person who possessed the greatest abilities joined to an honesty of purpose that placed him above reproach. I was at the great race at Lachine, and discounted the rumors there afloat concerning 'crooked work.' I could not believe them. Why, when Hankin, of the Boston Herald, assured me that the race was sold I overcame his opinions with the earnestness of my own convictions, and he, feeling as I did, objected to the reports. It was true, the story he told me then was confirmatory of his belief in the sale of the race. This story, you may remember, was to the effect that an intimate friend of Courtney called on him the morning of the race, saying that he had a large amount of money to invest, and that Courtney, in a hesitating way, asked the friend if he could not find another way to place his money. When the distrust and want of confidence in the club came to me it came backed with facts incontrovertible to my mind. This was in the city when the club and Hanlan were preparing for their trip to England. I was with the party during their stay here, and while going about New York I was unable, owing to my blind confidence, to see things as they were. I was taken aside and told what was going on and invited to enter the inner circle. Then I left the party.

"Hanlan had your boats, did he not?"

"Yes; but instead of using either of the two, he took the one I last built for him and gave it to an English boat builder, who turned it up and taking its lines constructed from it as a model a boat for Hanlan and one for Elliott. You know Ross and Plaisted were with Hanlan, and you know that Ross shortly after his arrival in the old country came home. Well, Ross was paid to leave England, and on reaching home he told me all about the inside working of the club, just as I had explained to me in New York. Ross was to shine as a star except Hanlan. Why, sir, the whole story of that club is summed in the payment of $900 to Elliott to enable him to make up his stake for the race."

"Are there any men in America who can beat Hanlan?"

"Yes, there are three men—Courtney, Ross and Riley."

"Did Ross make any specific charge of fraud?"

"You recall the grand reception given to Hanlan on his arrival in this city? When that gentleman was about to return home Mr. Shaw, who is a United States official, wrote to a gentleman well known in New York requesting him to use his influence to make the reception a grand ovation. That gentleman came to me with Mr. Shaw's lengthy letter, and on my telling him what I thought of the club and of Mr. Hanlan, fortifying my opinion with facts, he wrote a letter to Mr. Shaw declining to have anything to do with the proposed reception.

Then, in a few days, Mr. Barney Biglin came to me. He had been requested to take charge of the affair—and just here comes in a little politics. Mr. Shaw had written to the postmaster, who requested Mr. Biglin to comply with Mr. Shaw's request. When I had explained to Mr. Biglin why I would not have any part in the affair, he said that he would not, though he would not wish to back out now, for influence might be brought to injure him."

"Every man," said the justice, emphasizing his remark by striking the table, "who has rowed against Hanlan has, in my opinion, had an understanding as to the winner."

"Do I understand that that is the way Hanlan became so popular and the club so famous?"

"Yes, sir, that's just it."

"Explanations will now be in order?"

"I hope so and the sooner the better, for it is a pity that we cannot keep this sport above the reach of crooked dealing. A full account from all parties will do so. I wish it, no matter whom the exposure will hurt. You may say that I am anxious for Courtney to meet Hanlan; I am now at work looking to that end, and that it is more than probable they will meet."

Courtesy Confident.

Seneca Falls, Aug. 18.—Your correspondent saw Courtney at Cayuga to-day, and in a conversation with him upon the general aquatic theme, he expressed himself with regard to a possible meeting between himself and Hanlan with much disinterestedness, saying he was in the finest condition possible and had no fears as to the results of a meeting if on a fair course. He was waiting for Johnson from Ensenore at Cayuga when they will go to Charlotte.

Throopville Picnic.

The picnic on Wednesday next from Throopville to Taghanick, will embark on a large and staunch steamer at Cayuga at about 9 o'clock A. M., and return at 6 P. M. Tickets for the round trip 50 cents. All are invited.

The Influence of a Prison in Politics.

The member of the Committee from the 26th District who steadily and alone voted in caucus for Syracuse as the place of meeting congratulated himself.—Auburn News-Bulletin.

Obituary.

MILK J. WEBSTER.

Milo J. Webster, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Auburn, died yesterday morning after a brief illness of five days. Major Webster, as he was familiarly known, was born at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Nov. 30, 1794. At the time of his decease he was in the eighty-first year of his age. He removed from Saratoga Springs to this city in the year 1816.

Auburn at that remote date was but a mere hamlet. The site on which Auburn prison was built at the time when Mr. Webster took up his residence here, was a tract of dense woods abounding in game, and a small foot bridge spanned the Owasco outlet on Genesee street, nearly in the same place where the present structure stands. His father, Milo Webster, served in the patriot army during the revolution and the subject of this notice, then but a youth of fifteen years of age, participated with honor in the war of 1812-13-14. On the 14th of December 1820, Mr. Webster was united in marriage to Julia Adams, a resident of the village of Auburn, and as the fruits of their union they were blessed with ten children, five daughters and five sons; the latter all serving with distinction in the late war of the rebellion. The deceased was the first person received into the communion of the Baptist church of this city; but died embracing the spiritualistic faith. In politics he was a consistent Republican.

He was a kind husband, a devoted father, an honest man. No higher eulogy can be pronounced. Although having long since passed the allotted term of his life, his demise was unlooked for by his family, who in their deep bereavement have the sympathy of the entire community. At the request of one of the members of the household the following lines are added to this brief notice.

You will meet on the shore, which your vessel will find,
Dear friends who sailed onward, and left us behind;
You will know them, and clasp them, and kiss them once more,
Grown young: again there, on the beautiful shore.

Farmers' Festival.

The Cayuga County Annual Farmers' Festival, will be held on the farm of J. N. Knapp, Esq., (Galpin Hill), on Wednesday, the third of September next, commencing at 10 o'clock, A. M. All are cordially invited to attend. Speaking, good music, and a good time generally may be expected. The committee are requested to meet on the grounds, on Saturday, 30th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M., sharp, to make necessary arrangements. D. C. HOWELL, Pres.

W. L. NOYES, Sec'y.

SHIELDRAKE.

A Heavy Season and Plenty of Physical and Mental Recreation.

Cayuga Lake Hotel, Sheldrake, August 15.—Notwithstanding the present chill that pervades the atmosphere, the Cayuga Lake Hotel is filled with guests. The large stream of visitors that are constantly coming and going, testify to the popularity of this noted caravansary. Some stop long enough to enjoy a breathing spell, while others of more leisure remain permanent guests. John E. Allen by his gentlemanly deportment, kind and entertaining manner, has found a place in the hearts of pleasure seekers. That this is so is evidenced by the fresh arrivals every day. He personally attends to the slightest detail and has remained here all summer looking after the interests of the hotel and the people who patronize it.

Sunday last was an exceedingly busy day. The large dining hall was thrown open after dinner at one o'clock P. M., and the numerous corps of waiters were engaged until after five o'clock supplying the wants of the hungry. Miss host Allen never has an empty larder, and was equal to the emergency.

Guests are here from Philadelphia, New York, Toledo and all over the country. Auburn contributes its share.

Services are held in the parlors every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, by Rev. E. Cattell. This is an especial feature of the Cayuga Lake Hotel and one that is appreciated by the church going visitors.

Robert D. Allen, of Philadelphia, conducts a "German" in the parlors every evening. Mrs. Horace Sibley and Miss May Seigfried, of Seneca Falls, gave a highly enjoyable entertainment of readings, recitations and singing in the drawing room on the night of August 6th. Their efforts to please were rewarded by an encore at the close of every piece.

The Sunday steamer from Cayuga to Sheldrake proves a great accommodation to Auburnians who desire to fee away from the heat and dust of the city and enjoy a delightful ride on the waters of Cayuga Lake, and enjoy the hospitality of the Cayuga Lake Hotel.
